A DICTIONARY in Spanish and English:

FIRST PVBLISHED INTO THE Engliſh tongue by RIC. PERCIVALE Gent. Now enlarged and amplified with many thouſand words, as by this marke * to each of them prefixed may appeare; together with the accenting of euery word thorowout the whole DICTIONARIE, for the true pronunciation of the language, as alſo for the diuers ſignification of one and the ſelfeſame word: And for the learners eaſe and furtherance, the declining of all hard and irregular Verbs; and for the ſame cauſe the former order of the Alphabet is altered, diuers hard and vncouth phraſes and ſpeeches out of ſundry of the beſt Authors explained, with diuers neceſſary notes and eſpeciall directions for all ſuch as ſhall be deſirous to attaine the perfection of the SPANISH TONGVE.

All done by John Minſheu Profeſſor of Languages in LONDON.

Hereunto for the further profit and pleaſure of the learner or delighted in this tongue, is annexed an ample Engliſh Dictionarie, Alphabetically ſet downe with the Spaniſh words thereunto adioyned, as alſo an Alphabeticall Table of the Arabicke and Mooriſh words now commonly receiued and vſed in the Spaniſh tongue, which being diſperſed in their ſeuerall due places throughout the whole DICTIONARIE are marked thus †: by the ſame John Minſheu.

FOR THE RIGHT VSE OF THIS WORKE, I referre you to the Directions before the Dictionarie, contriued in diuers points differing from other Dictionaries heretofore ſet forth.

TO THE RIGHT VERTVOVS, AND THRISE WORTHIE,

SIR IOHN SCOT, SIR HENRY BROMLEY, Sir Edward Greuel Knights, and Maſter William Forteſcue Eſquire, their humble deuoted IOHN MINSHEU wiſheth health to their perſons, increaſe to their poſſeſſions, and euerlaſting felicitie to their ſoules.

RIght vertuous and worthily worſhipfull, after I had ſpent ſome yeares paſt in this kinde, the moſt vnprofitable and vnpleaſant ſtudie of ſearching words for a Dictionarie, in ſuch ſort, Vt nec tempori, nec rei familiari, nec mihi parcerem: but Come la candela, far' ben' a gli altri & male a mi ſteſſo; with the candle to light others, and burne out my ſelfe: at laſt looking backe to repentance, I began to addreſſe my endeuours to ſome good hap, and found you among many as foure principall pillars that haue ſupported my declining eſtate, and giuen life by your liberalities to my dying pen. Wherefore I thinke reaſon biddeth, nay dutie rather bindeth, or your due challengeth, what I preſume here to dedicate. And although each of you deſerue much more than euer my abilitie will be able to reach vnto, yet according to the common cuſtome of bad debters, I diuide my ſubſtance, deſiring my creditors euery one to take his part. If any cauill about the number of foure; let him be aduertiſed, There be foure Elements placed in the world: likewiſe foure ſeaſons in the yeere: alſo foure humors that poſſeſſe the bodie; and foure vertues that ſhould gouerne the minde: and you foure principall corner ſtones to ſupport the building of this preſent worke, without which it could not haue yet beene finiſhed: Wherefore let the honour bee yours, and the labour mine. When I had waded ſo farre in it, as without helpe I could not get ouer, nor without danger and ſhame returne backe; then did you, courteous entertainer of vertue, right worthy and valorous Sir Iohn Scot, of your own good nature, bounty, and kindnes (the like whereof in one perſon is hardly to be matched) play the Vnicorne for the reſt to drinke. Next you, courteous and vertuous Sir Henry Bromley, louer and liberall to all good letters, whoſe purſe and paines is alwaies open for your your Prince and countrey; ſo is it neuer ſhut to the aduancement of vertue, who as you are endued with an excellent memorie, and well read in all kind of learning, ſo are you a true Mecænas of learning and vertue, and a bountifull Benefactor to the ſame, as ſundrie Scholers at the Vniuerſitie (ſome whereof at your owne charge you maintaine) can better teſtifie. You the third, not ſecond to any, well accompliſht and worthy Knight, Sir Edward Greuel, beloued in the Court, and honoured in the country, among the great, great, and ouermatching your equalls with the greatneſſe of your bright-ſhining vertues, giue exceeding cauſe to all, eſpecially to me, not to forget the honor of your name: for who knoweth not that knoweth you, that the foure cardinall vertues, vpon which the reſt doe depend, haue their abundant influence into your minde. Laſt, you the mirror of a good minde, right vertuous Maſter William Fort Eſcu, for all vertuous actions and goodneſſe, a ſtrong ſhield as your name in French doth import; whoſe right honourable father endued with ſingular memory, learning, and excellent vertues, (by which eſpecially hee hath beene aduanced) in thoſe gifts of the minde you ſucceed and follow: haue bound me by your bounty and exceeding curteſies to make ſome publike teſtimony of the ſame. But what goe I about to decipher that which is impoſsible ſufficiently to be ſet downe, and to praiſe them whoſe peeres as yet I haue not found, whoſe many qualities and exceeding ding vertues doe ſo far ſurmount the greateſt part of men, as the glorious Sun with his bright beames the leſſer celeſtiall bodies : whereof for mee to ſpeake with condigne praiſes, is a thing more due to your deſerts, than eaſie for my rude pen, and rather appertaineth to my duty, than ſtandeth with my abilitie : but as the French ſaith, Bonne volonté ſupplie a la faculté : if your worſhips receiue me and my meaning with that vertue which is wont to be in you, I ſhall not onely be encouraged hereafter, but others will labour to honour you for this example. And heerewith I doe moſt humbly and faithfully commend vnto you my ſelfe and theſe my labours with an vnfained heart, and humble deuotion, to be commanded as beſt pleaſeth you : Whom God long keepe and preſerue to your Prince, countrey, and friends.

Yours bound and aſſured

TO THE READER.

THreefold Reader, for ſo thou wilt diuide thy ſelfe, into good, bad, and indifferent; whom I likewiſe compare to three kindes of creatures, the Bee, the Spider, and the Cameleon: The firſt onely I hold in account, and I hope he will account of me and my labours, as that it may not be ſaid, Perit quod facis ingrato. The ſecond, whom I as little regard, as he the credit of others; becauſe like the Spider, conuerting all to poyſon; or as cupping glaſſes drawing out nothing but corrupt bloud, he thinketh himſelfe graced to haue only a grace in backbiting. But let me aske him this one queſtion, whether he euer publiſhed his owne labours in Print? If he anſwer yea: then I ſay with the Italian, Chi vuol dir' mal d' altrui, prima penſi di lui; Hee that will ſpeake ill of another, let him firſt looke into himſelfe: and Chi ſemina ſpine, non vadi diſcalzo, He that ſoweth thornes, let him not goe barefoot; then may he finde, that Nemo ſine crimine viuit, or Nemo ſine crimine ſcribit: ſo that Bene audire qui vult, bene dicere oportet. To other moat-finders, that neuer ſmelt the oile of the preſſe, I ſay with the Poet, Carpere vel noli noſtra, vel ede tua; and let them conſider this is my firſt worke; and as Seneca ſaith, in euery firſt worke there muſt be of force ſome imperfection and error, which if he beleeue not, I ſay with Terence, Tu ſi hic ſies, aliter ſenties. They that buſie themſelues in reprehending the faults of other mens writings, their owne are likely neuer to come to light: Wherefore I wiſh them to deale gentleman-like and not vpon ods; then may we ſee, if El dezír y el hazér cómen juntos a ſu meſa, If ſpeaking and doing dine together at their table. Beſides, I haue vndertaken more than one worke at one time; as firſt the Spaniſh Dictionary with Engliſh following; then an Engliſh Alphabet with Spaniſh following; then another little Dictionary with generall heads, ſhewing the particular parts, as a man and his parts, a houſe with the implements therein, ſhips at ſea, officers in war, trades and occupations, and diuers other things, quæ nunc perſcribere longum eſt, &c. which is left out being ſomewhat preuented by time, beſides Dialogues Spaniſh and Engliſh : and I haue done as the Italian Prouerbe ſaith, Chi tutto abbraccia nulla ſtringe, or Chi due lepri caccia, vno perde altro laſcia. Qui vbique eſt, nullibi eſt. Furthermore, the worke is long and my time but ſhort, and as the Poet ſaith, Tantum opere in magno fas eſt obrepere ſomnum, that is, In a great worke it is tolerable to let paſſe diuers errors which time and peruſing might haue corrected; and therefore ſaith Horace in his Arte Poetica, that a worke that is finiſhed, ſhould be nine yeeres after in the Authors hands, to the intent he might blot out, adde to, alter and amend: And I want nine yeeres yet to come, before I ſhould thereof make an end, as thoſe that be well experienced in this kinde can beſt deeme. Yet ſome that preſume much, and can iudge little, haue affirmed that a Dictionarie in a yeere might be gathered compleat enough : I anſwer, that in conceit it may ſo be, and in much leſſe time. And herewithall it comes now to my minde, that talking hereof with a Gentleman well read in the Greeke, Latine, and vulgar tongues, which entred into a worke, proteſting and vowing to me, that he thought when he began, it could by no meanes poſſible hold him a moneths time, and ſince that, he hath continually dwelt thereon almoſt this three yeeres, and thinkes he hath ſcarce halfe done. Before we begin we lay downe our plot in conceit only, and thinke we may as ſoone make an end, as our imagination or thought (which is the ſwifteſt thing in the world) can flie ouer it. I confeſſe my ſelfe I was ſeduced by this errour, till practiſe brought me into the right path, and repentance ſcourged me for going aſtray : if he take not my word herein, which haue tried, how would he haue his taken which neuer proued? I acknowledge theſe workes Abortiues, borne before their due time into the world, which being ſo full of trouble and ſickneſſe, conſumed the fathers ſubſtance thereon, for Moult deſpendre, rien gaigner n' acquerir : fait l' homme en fin ſon pain querir. Therefore meanes was made in great haſte that it was brought forth as you ſee, which if the fathers wealth had beene anſwerable to his will, it would haue beene better able to haue done his countrey ſeruice : Notwithſtanding all this, the enuious, who canker and eat vp themſelues in their owne ruſt, (ſeeing they are of moſt continuance and antiquitie in the world, taking their beginning from the Serpent which ſeduced Eue) ſo laboured that it might not be printed, that they left no ſtone vnturned which they thought might any way hinder the ſame : a ſtrange nature, to ſeeke to ſtop that ſhould run to the publike good; beſides to ſome of their helpes, to pull them out when they ſticke faſt, and to other ſome to reape other profit by. Which droue me into remembrance of a fable, how

Iupiter

Iupiter disposed to survey the earth, sent his messenger downe, who met with a couetous and enuious man, for whose company at their parting he promised to giue either of them what he would aske, and the other forthwith should receiue double the value : the couetous would not demand first, because he would haue double so much; neither would the enuious, because he could not abide his fellow to doe so well : and being in this conflict who should aske first, knowing a demand must be made, the enuious demanded one of his owne eyes to be pulled out, that the other might receiue double. The malitious are neuer sad, but when some harme is happened to themselues, or some good to another man : therefore saith Antisthenes, Inuidos tam ciuitati esse inutiles, quàm lolium tritico, aut ignauum bello; Enuious persons as vnprofitable in a citie, as darnell or cockle in the wheat, or a coward in the warre: they resemble the viper, which first gnawes out his dams guts, afterwards stings and poisons others ; or muzled dogs, which when they cannot bite themselues, they set others on, and oftentimes like the Serpent Porphirius, who is full of poison, but being toothlesse hurteth none but himselfe. But let them passe as they are, and prosper as they wish to others. Another sort of people which are so puffed vp with pride, and swollen with fat of fortune and riches, so metamorphosed, and looking so proudly, as if they were borne to be Princes companions, and lifting their heads so high, as if they had beene bred to looke no lower than stars, hold in beggerly and base account learning and Art, forgetting now as the Priest that euer he was Parish Clarke : yet as the peacocke wrapt in all the pride of his plumes, is knowne to be but a dunghill bird by his foule feet; so though the high lookes, and costly suits, argue to the eies of the world, they were men of worship, yet the churlish illiberalitie of their minds bewray, that fish that is bred in puddle will alwayes stinke of mud. This sort would thinke it a fantasticall humour to honour greatly Grauers in stone, as Romulus did ; or Priests, as Numa Pompilius his successor did; or Goldsmiths, as Caius Cæsar; or Writers, as Claudius; or good Painters, as Vespasian ; or to respect learning, as Alexander did, which neither in peace nor warre left Homers Iliads (together with his sword) from vnder his beds head : or to write Commentaries, as Cæsar. And here I cannot forget a Gentleman of rare wit, and excellent learning, Sir Edward Hobbie Knight, who as he hath gotten the perfection of the Spanish tongue in a short time, so hath he publikely in print manifested it in like sort, as also in courtesie vouch-

Yet doe I notwithſtanding ſubmit my ſelfe and doings, to the iudgement of the diſcreet, learned, and wiſe, that whatſoeuer is amiſſe, being aduertiſed thereof, I promiſe to labour with my beſt endeuours to correct and amend : for no doubt many things may eſcape in Printing, and much the more, for that I was in the countrey vpon neceſsitie, when the Dictionary was at the preſſe, and there remained till it was all done : wherefore I meane to peruſe the whole worke ouer, which ſhall be augmented, and if any thing be amiſſe it ſhall be amended : As for the captious (which take vp matters before they fall) let them allow me maintenance, and I will make it to their liking : knowing it is hard to pleaſe few, harder to pleaſe many, impoſsible to pleaſe all : I leaue theſe my labours to the view of all, ſo to bee cenſured as they ſhall finde themſelues profited by them.* Vale.

Directions for the vnderſtanding the vſe of this Dictionarie, contriued in diuers points differing from other Dictionaries heretofore ſet forth, for the ſpeedier furtherance of the learner in this tongue.

FIrſt I haue declined all the Irregular and hardeſt Verbes thorow this whole Booke as they fall in their Alphabeticall order, in the ſingular number in two moodes, the Indicatiue and Subiunctiue, and three Tenſes (by which the other are formed) and in the Indicatiue moode in three perſons, and the Subiunctiue in two, viz. the Preſent tenſe, the firſt Preterperfect tenſe, and the Future tenſe of the Indicatiue moode. The Preſent tenſe, the Preterimperfect tenſe, and the Future tenſe of the Subiunctiue moode, to make the learner and deſirous of the tongue exact and ready with little or no labour in any of them. The manner of ſetting downe thus: Præſ. for Preſent tenſe, 1. Præt. for firſt Preterperfect tenſe, Fut. for Future tenſe. Sub. for Subiunctiue moode. Imperfect. for Preterimperfect tenſe, &c. as for example this Verbe, Traér, to fetch or bring, Indicat. Præſ Tráygo, tráes, tráe. 1. Præt. Trúxe, truxíſte, trúxo, or Tráxe, traxíſte, tráxo. Fut. Traeré, traerás, traerá. Sub. Præſ. Tráyga. Imperfect. Truxéra, Traería or Truxéſſe, or Traxéra, Traería, or Traxéſſe. Fut. Truxiére. 1

Alſo for the more eaſe of the learner, and to make vſe of this Declining hard and Irregular verbes, I ſet downe the Tenſes of ſuch verbes in their owne Alphabet, as Trúxe, Trúxo, Truxéra, Truxéſſe, and ſay, vide Traér, and there he ſhall ſee him declined at large, leſt hee might miſtake and thinke Trúxe, Trúxo, Truxéra, Truxéſſe, might come of Truxér, or the like, and not of Traér. In like manner I ſay Cúpe, Cúpo, Cupiéra, Cupiéſſe, vide Cabér. alſo Quíſe, Quiſiéra, Quiſiéſſe, vide Querér. Díxe, Díxo, Dixéſſe, Dixéra, vide Dezír, and ſo of all the reſt: ſo that by this meanes he ſhall not only finde euery one of theſe and their like in their right Alphabet as they ſhall looke, but alſo know the true ſignification and declining them to make him moſt perfect in any or all of them. 2

Likewiſe I accent euery word in the whole Dictionarie to cauſe the learner to pronounce it right, otherwiſe when he ſpeaketh he ſhall not be vnderſtood of the naturall Spaniard: as Bacía, a bowle, a baſen, a trey, not Bácia: as Bárrio, a ward, not Barrío: as Difícil, hard, difficule, not Díficil, nor Dificil: as Amór, loue, not ámor: Paſtór, a ſhepherd, not Páſtor: as Religión, not Religion: Caridád, dearenelſe, charitie, not Cáridad: as Davíd, not Dávid: as Tenér, to hold, not Téner, and ſo of an infinite company of the reſt. 3

This accenting ſerueth alſo and maketh one and the ſelfe ſame word of diuers ſignifications (wherefore I thought it needfull for the learners behalfe) as ámo, a maſter, or Ioue, amó, he hath loued. Cérco, a ſiege, Cercó, he hath beſieged. Házia towards, Hazía, I or he did make. Báxa, a daunce ſo called. Baxá, a Baſſa or commander among the Turkes. ésta, ſhee or this thing. Eſtá, it ſtandeth. éſte, he. Eſté, let it ſtand. De, of or from. Dé, let him giue. Péro, a peare tree; Peró, but, &c. 4

The two letters for two genders m. for maſculine, and f. for feminine. The neuter is of ſmall vſe in the Spaniſh tongue; when it is the common of two, or doubtfull, I refer it to euery Latiniſt to conſider how eaſily he may diſcerne them; to others, this profiteth nothing. 5

Further to ſhew wherehence the compounds doe ariſe, to know their Radix and originall, I make the compoſition in a ſmaller letter, and the ſimple in a greater, thus: abs Tenér, to abſtaine, 6 of Tenér, to hold, and abs, from; and ſo abs Tenér, to hold from or abſtaine: ſo abSuélto, looſed from or abſolued. des Atár, to vntie: des Armár, to vnarme: des Dicha, miſhap: des Ventúra, misfortune. re Tenér, to retaine: re Hécho, made againe.

7 Beſides, I would haue thoſe that haue not read much in this tongue to be aduertiſed, that in diuers good Authors one word is written ſometime with one letter or character, and ſometime with another, and yet the ſelfeſame word and the ſelfeſame ſignification, whereby they confound and vſe one letter for another, as B for V conſonant, and V conſonant for B; as Balléſta or Valléſta, a croſſebow. Vandéra, or Bandéra, an enſigne, a banner, a flag of a ſhip. Biſárma, or Viſárma, a weapon with two pikes. Viſabuélo, or Biſabuélo, a great grandfather. Bogár, or Vogár, to row. Volúmen, or Bolúmen, a volume of a booke: ſo in the middle of a word, as Cábo, or Cávo, an end. Wherefore I aduiſe the reader if he finde not the word in B turne to V: if not in V looke to B. In like ſort theſe following, as ç cerilla for z, and z for ç, as Haçér, for Hazér, to make, or to doe; as Rezélo, for wary feare, or ſuſpicion, for Reçélo; as Corçílla, or Corzílla, a little roe bucke: ſo e for i, and i for e, as Desfavór, Disfavór, Disfamár, Desfamár: alſo o and u, as Mochácho, Muchácho, a boy, a lad: ſo f and ph, as Filóſopho, Philóſopho, a Philoſopher: g for j, and j for g, as Mageſtád, or Majeſtád: j for x, Dejár, for Dexár, to leaue: and x for j, as Tixéras for Tijéras, or Tigéras, ſheares or ſciſſers: alſo x for ch, as Cartúxo, for Cartúcho, Patáche, Patáge, or Pataje, a pinaſſe: Algedréz, Aljedréz, or Axedréz, cheſſe-boord, or cheſſe-play. The like to theſe would I wiſh the Reader if he finde them not in one letter or Alphabet, to turne to the other, and no doubt he may be ſatisfied.

8 Moreouer, when you finde not a word in the ſingle letter, looke in the double; or not in the double, looke in the ſingle, as Eféto, or Efféto, effect: Aſalto, Aſſalto, an aſſault: Atónito, Attónito, aſtoniſhed, &c. But take heed you take not this double letter with a crooked line ouer him thus ñ: for this ſingle n, as Peña, a rocke, pronounced Pénnia for Pena, puniſhment or paine: nor the ſingle l for the double ll, nor the double for the ſingle: both which letters alwaies make a differing ſignification and pronuntiation.

9 Be in like manner well aduiſed whether two words be ioyned in one (a thing too common with Spaniſh writers) as Encaſa, for en Caſa, in the houſe: Eneféto, for en Eféto, in Effect: Decáda, for de Cáda, of euery: Defuéra, for de Fuéra, without: Dél, for de El, of him: Deléxos, for de Léxos, from farre.

10 Furthermore, marke Amálle, for Amár le, to loue him: Caſtigálle, for Caſtigár le, to chaſtiſe him: Hablálle, for Hablár le, to ſpeake vnto him: Creélle, for Creér le, to beleeue him: Dezílle, for Dezír le, to tell him.

11 Alſo Caſtigálde, for Caſtigád le, doe ye chaſtiſe him: Leéldo, for Leéd lo, read ye it: Dezílde, for Dezíd le, tell ye him.

12 For the learners more ready finding out of words in this Dictionarie, I beſtowed a good deale of time and paines in bringing the words into the Alphabet, I heere vſe in this booke differing from Nebriſſenſis, Criſtóuall de Caſas, and M. Perciuals in Engliſh: which place next Ca Cl, and not Ce Ch, and place Ch after the end of Cu, &c. And for the giuing notice of what I haue done without defrauding any thing from the labours of any that haue trauelled in this kinde, I haue made a difference of the words I haue meerely added by a ſtarre thus *, whereby it may be ſeene what and how much I haue enlarged by my long labour and paines: and for the moſt part of the reſt of the words I haue augmented with diuers Engliſhes more than heretofore hath beene ſet downe, as I haue found them in Authors, which the nature of the word may and will containe: as alſo put out, and quite altered the Engliſh of ſundry of them miſtaken: which, if (gentle Reader) deſirous of this tongue, it may further thy knowledge to thy good liking, it ſhall further encourage me (after this my firſt beginning) hereafter to doe my beſt to ſatisfie thy deſire.

IOHN MINSHEU.

TO THE RIGHT WORSHIPFVLL GENTLEMEN Students of GRAYES INNE, health and happineſſe: and to the affected to Languages there, daily increaſe, with perfect accompliſhment of the moſt commendable qualities.

VCius a famous Roman meeting on a time with the Emperor Marcus, asked him whither he went: who anſwered, I am going to Sextus, vt diſcam quod nondum ſcio, that I may learne that which I doe not yet know. Diogenes the Philoſopher went to Athens to Antiſthenes to learne of him ſomewhat that hee was ignorant of; but Antiſthenes not willing to impart at that time any of his doctrine, repulſed him: the other left not off his purpoſe, but more and more importuned him, in ſuch ſort, that Antiſthenes taking vp a ſtaffe to driue him away, Diogenes ſtretched out his necke, willing him to ſtrike on hardly, for he ſhould not finde a ſtaffe ſo hard, that could driue him from him ſo long as he might learne any matter by him worthie the hearing. I ſpeake this Gentlemen, meaning none of you to be bound by their example, ſeeing one was an Emperor and might doe what he liſt, and the other a Cinick Philoſopher that would doe that he ought: therefore if a man haue any learning or quality, let him bring it to you, and if it be too tedious vnto you, or hinder your ſport, rather than be troubled with him, bob him or ſtout and ſcoffe him away. Be not imitators of Demoſthenes which ſpent more oile in the lampe in ſtudying to enrich his minde, than wine to comfort his body; but rather waſte your wine and ſpare your candles: neither be ſo fooliſh as Cleanthes the Philoſopher, that drew water in the night that he might follow his ſtudie in the day; rather take your eaſe in the night and your pleaſure in the day, becauſe Mutantur tempora & nos mutamur in illis. Yet Gentlemen, if you doe but ſet before your eies theſe famous men, which haue beene and are of the houſe you now remaine in, (the names of ſome few I can now recite) as Sir Nicholas Bacon Lord Keeper, Lord Burleigh Lord Treaſurer, Sir Walter Mildmay, and Sir Francis Walſingham, learned Fitzherbert Lord chiefe Iuſtice of the Common pleas, which abridged the Law, and Sir William Stanford, which wrote the pleas of the the crowne, Sergeant Yelverton, Sergeant Daniel, Sergeant Spurling, Maſter Brograue, Maſter Stanhop, Maſter Heſquit, Maſter Anthony and Maſter Francis Bacon, with diuers others, might well moue you to conſider that Qui veult plus qu'vn autre valoir, doibt plus qu'vn autre ſcauoir: He that will be eſteemed aboue another man, muſt haue more knowledge then another man: And Meglio eſſer mendicante che ignorante, Better to be a beggar than barren of good letters. But theſe letters are painfully purchaſed, why Petit ardua virtus; Difficilis virtutis via; Difficilia quæ pulchra: Therefore Pythagoras counſelled his familiar friends that they ſhould chuſe out the beſt kinde of life, although the moſt difficult: and Saluſt ſaith, deckings pertaine to women, and trauels belong to men: and Seneca affirmeth, that baſe is that honour which is gotten with idleneſſe, which the Roman policy when it flouriſhed confirmed by an ancient law duly kept, that euery father that had children of the age of ten yeares ſhould become ſurety for them, that they ſhould not liue idle, or commit any exceſſe, which was ſo nearely looked vnto, that they publikely chaſtiſed Cato the Cenſors ſonne for a ſaucineſſe committed, and baniſhed a brother of good old Ciña for liuing idlie among them. None durſt preſume to goe into the ſtreets but hee carried ſome token in his hand what kinde of life or ſtudie he followed, which if in theſe times it were in force, how many ſtreet walkers would retire themſelues to ſome vertuous ſtudies. But me thinke I heare ſome ſay, Ars longa & vita breuis, I anſwer them with the Thebane Philoſopher, which in the 75. Olympiade, came to the ſolemne ſports kept about the citie Olympia in honour of Iupiter, who had made all the apparell he ware with his owne hands: his ſhooes he had ſowed, his ſhirt he had wouen, being demanded where he had learned ſo many mens arts, anſwered, In the beginning there was but one art at all, and that the ſloth of men had cauſed that one to be diuided into many, and how euery particular man with diligence and labour might obtaine to the knowledge of that that all men in generall had knowledge of. To this purpoſe Pythagoras ſaid, He that knoweth not what he ought to know, is a brute beaſt among men: He that knoweth no more than he hath need of, is a man among brute beaſts: He that knoweth all that may be knowne, is a God among men. So many examples preſent themſelues, that rather time would faile than matter herein, and for that my caſe ſtandeth now rather to demand remedie and not giue counſell, or to giue thankes for good turnes receiued, and not preſcribe precepts, I thinke good briefly and plainly to ſhew vnto you how hauing found my ſelfe beholding to ſome of you whom I had read vnto in the tongues, I thought nothing could better agree with my profeſſion as to ſhew my gratefull minde towards you, than by labouring for your eaſe, in theſe inſtructions of the Spaniſh tongue: which if they be thankefully receiued, I ſhall thinke my labour well imploied. Yet before I could make an end of this and the Dictionarie, I did as Robertus Stephanus ſaith of himſelfe in gathering together his Dictionaries called Theſaurus linguæ Græcæ & Latinæ; I haue made Theſaurum, that is, a Treaſure for others, but thereby haue made my ſelfe a beggar, whereof ſome of the right vertuous and worthy gentlemen of that your houſe, (to whom I am moſt beholding, and therefore ſtand moſt in affection bound) vnderſtanding, wiſhed me to goe forward in ſo good a worke, and not to giue ouer for ſome wants: which then of themſelues they ſupplied, Pythagoras.

TO THE READER.

IF it be vanity and vexation of minde, for a man to toile in this life to gather riches together, when he knowes not whether he be wiſe or fooliſh that ſhall enioy it: we may thinke the ſweat of our ſpirits and the toile of our bodies, to be altogether vaine, which write or print, when we cannot tell whether they will proue ſober or franticke, to whom we leaue the poſſeſſion of our trauels. But the Spaniard ſaith, Quien de miédo ſe murió de cagaxónes le hiziéron la ſepoltura; and becauſe as the Italian ſaying is, A molti puzza l'ambro, Amber is accounted ſtinking by many: and Dal aſino non ne hai che calzi & petti: I am reſolued for this once to put on Merchants eares, to heare with patience euery mans ſpeech and diſpraiſings of his wares, becauſe Quot homines tot ſententiæ, So many men, ſo many mindes. Therefore he that ſhould leaue off any good worke for any mans ill ſpeech, may well be likened to that poore ſilly fellow, which on a time went with one of his ſonnes with his Aſſe before him to the wood, to fetch him a load thereof for his wife and children; and meeting trauellers by the way, ſome miſliking with him that he ſhould goe on foot, and let his Aſſe goe leere; others, that he road himſelfe, and ſuffered his childe to goe a foot; others, that hee loaded the poore Aſſe with two perſons, being ſcarce able to carrie himſelfe; others, when he left his ſonne alone riding, and himſelfe goe on foot; in ſuch ſort that the countrey fellow could not tell what to doe, ſeeing doe what he could, ſtill he found reprehenders: whereupon he would goe no further forward, but returned ſad home to his houſe without wood, where he remained for feare of fault-finders, till he and his houſhold were neere ſtarued with cold, till at laſt finding his owne ſimplicitie, he returned to the wood, and to as many as hee met by the way, he ſaid, He that paſſeth for other mens ſpeeches and repreefes, endureth cold and a thouſand griefes; and he that will throw a ſtone at euery dogge, ſhall haue a weary arme: but I hope, Qui bien ferá, bien aurá: And for all the dogs barking, the Moone will ſtand where it did. And I ſay to the malicious, Mets ta main ſovent en ton ſein, & tu ne meſdirás de ton prochain. And let them remember, that Chi fa quello che non deve, gli avien quel che non crede: According to a Hiſtory I haue read of an Emperour, who had his brothers ſonne for his cupbearer: The Emperors Steward and vncle, for enuie perſwaded the cupbearer that his breath did ſtinke, and wiſhed therefore to turne his face from the Emperour when he deliuered the cup till remedy were found: forthwith he told the Emperour, that his cupbearer had defamed him to all his Court, by ſaying his breath did ſtinke; and to know it for a certaintie, he likewiſe told him how he ſhould ſee the cup-bearer turne away his face from him when he came neere him; whereupon the Emperor conceiued ſuch wrath againſt him, (as the ſaying is, The anger of a Prince the meſſenger of death) that hee ſent expreſſe command to his burners of bricke, that they ſhould burne that man that came vnto them firſt the next morrow; and likewiſe commanded his cup-bearer to be there ſo early that none might bee before him: on the morrow morning very early the cup-bearer going, and paſſing by a Church in the way, went in and fell into ſuch a ſound ſleepe, that it was the afternoone before he could awake. The Steward in the meane time to ſee the euent of the Cup-bearer, went and was burned himſelfe aliue. The cub-bearer at his returne ſignified to the Emperor what had hapned, and alſo was deſirous to know of the Emperour why he ſhould ſend him thither, &c. If neither Hiſtories nor reaſon perſwade them, they muſt needs be anſwered with ſilence, and ſo gentle Reader I reſt ſilent from troubling thee or them herewith any longer, more grieued at my miſhap and diſabilitie, than wanting good will or liking to doe thee ſeruice. Hæc raptim. Vale.

THE PROEME.

Paniſh is a ſpeech, whereof in times paſt (in Spaine) there hath beene foure kinds vſed: The firſt and ancienteſt is the Biskaine, which was the ſpeech of the prouince of Biskay and Nauarre: it hath his originall from the Caldean tongue, as the learned in them both affirme, to whom it plainly appeareth that this is of greateſt antiquitie.

The next is that which was ſpoken in the kingdome of Granado, and in part in the kingdomes of Andaluzía, Valencia, and Aragon, and was the Arabique, whoſe originall is the Hebrew almoſt among them quite worne out, yet to this day they keepe the pronunciation of ſome of their letters ſtill, as ç, G, j, X, Z.

The third is the Catalan, which is a kinde of French, and had his beginning from the prouince of Gaſcoigne, from the ancient citie Limoges: they ſpake this in the kingdomes of Cataluna, Mallorca, Menorca, Iuiça and Cerdena. This Catalan tongue was called Prouençall: and the Italians confeſſe that the Prouençals were the firſt inuentors of their rimes and verſes, which are ſo much priſed in Italie where Petraque, Boccace, and Dante, giue ſome teſtimonie in retaining their words in many places.

The fourth is that which is now at this day commonly vſed and ſpoken thorow all Spaine, and is called Léngua vulgár, the mother tongue, otherwiſe Léngua Caſtellána, or Eſpañola, the Caſtilian or Spaniſh tongue, principally vſed in Aragon, Andalucía, Múrcia, Caſtilla, Nueua, and Veja, León: alſo in Portugall, although the Portugall tongue haue ſuch difference in certaine words and pronunciations, that it may well be called a language by it ſelfe, euen as the Engliſh and Scottiſh, yet in truth, it is not ſo ſeuered, but that they ſprang from one fountaine, and haue one deſcendence.

This Lengua vulgár, or Spaniſh tongue, draweth his originall from the Latine or Roman, and becauſe the Roman conquerours were moſt politicke in prouiding for the continuance of their eſtates and language to their poſteritie, by planting where they woon, * Colonies and garriſons; as alſo not permitting any ſtranger to the priuiledge of their lawes or freedome of their townes, to buy, ſell, or traffique, but in the Roman or Latine tongue, as in Spaine they haue done: Therefore the Spaniſh retaineth ſtill to this day ſo much of the Latine tongue. And by reaſon of the Incurſion and ouerrunning of ſo many ſtrange nations, as the Africans inhabiting about Carthage, called Carthaginians, Gothes, Huns, and Vandals, which ceaſed not till they had ouerrunne the moſt part of Europe, yet ſo ſetled themſelues in Andaluzía in Spaine, that they called it by their owne name Vandaluzia or Vandalia of Vandalles, as alſo

Foure ſorts of Spaniſh.
1. Biskay tongue moſt ancient. This tongue drawne from the Caldean.
2. Arabique tongue in old time vſed in Granado, Andaluzia, Valencia, and Aragon, and yet retaine it in the pronunciation of theſe letters, ç, g, j, x, z.
3. Catalan tongue or Prouençal, a kinde of French, had originall from Gaſcoigne, and was vſed in Catalunña, Malorca, Juiça, Cerdeña.
4. The Spaniſh now vſed. Difference betweene the Spaniſh and Portugall tongue.
* A Colonie is a place inhabited, whither people are ſent to dwell: or people ſent to inhabite ſuch place: or a citie, the people whereof once came from another citie or countrey.
Why the Spaniſh keepeth ſo much of the Latine.

How the Moores first entred and conquered Spain. Chro of Spaine.

Africans inhabiting Mauritania called Moores, whose first comming in, proceeded from the licentious liuing and vnbridled lust of Don Rodrígo then king, in dishonouring and deflowring a Ladie called Cáva the daughter of Earle Iulian, one of his Nobles.

By meanes hereof, this language remaineth so altered and changed from his owne first propertie and nature, admitting words, accents, and pronunciations of other strange nations, as it is become a language of it selfe compounded of the Latine and aboue named tongues: but yet so, that it hath much more of the Latine than of all the other, whereby it may be called the Latine tongue altered or corrupted.

For Spanish words comming from the Latine, marke the table here following and their like.

Spanish words drawne from the Moorish tongue begin much with Al, as Alcúza, a vessell for oyle: Alfidél, or Alfilér, a pin: Almúd, a measure, a pecke: Alguarísmo, Arithmeticke: Almoháda, a pillow, &c. or in ç, as çaherír, to vpbraid, çahórda, a hogstie: or sound on r, or x, Almaráxa, an ewer of glasse: Xabón, soape: Almoradúx, marjoram: Arredrár, to driue away: Arrélde, foure pound weight, &c. also in z, as Zagál, a shepherd. And at this day the Moores in speaking Spanish for júro a Dios, I sweare by God, they say jureux a Deux: for Hombre, they say Homber: for Vuéstra mercéd, your worship or mastership, they say Voxár mérxe.

OF ORTHOGRAPHIE

Of Grammar and hir parts.

Definition of Grammar.

Grammar, is an art teaching the right rules of true ſpeaking and wꝛiting, and it is deriued from the Gꝛeeke wꝛd γράμμα, which is litera, as much as to ſay, ſcientia literaria, a knowledge of letters.

Diuiſion of Grammar.

Grammar, accoꝛding to Quintilian, is twofold: Hiſtoricall and Methodicall.
Hiſtoricall, gotten by imitation of Authoꝛs.
Methodicall, is taught by pꝛecepts, which onely we here handle.

Subdiuiſion of Grammar.

Diuiſion of Grammar.

Grammar Methodicall is diuided into foure parts, Orthography, Proſody, Etymology, and Syntaxis.
Orthography, conuerſant in letters.
Proſody, in ſyllables.
Etymology, in wꝛds.
Syntaxis, in ſentences.

Propertie of the foure parts of Grammar.

Orthographie, of the Gꝛeeke wꝛd ὀρθός right, γραφὴ wꝛiting.
Proſodia, of πρός, i. ad, & ὠδή, Cantus, that is, Accentus.
Etymologia, of Ετυμός, true, λόγος ſpeech.
Syntaxis, of σύν, i. con, & τάσσω, ordino, quaſi, coordinatio.

Definition of Orthographie.

Orthographie is a right rule of true wꝛiting, as befoꝛe of ὀρθός right, γραφὴ wꝛiting, whereby euerie wꝛd is to be ſet downe with his true letters, as Cierto, certaine, not Sierto.

Definition of Orthopœia.

Hereto belongeth Orthopœia, which is a right rule of true ſpeaking, of ὀρθός right, ἔπος wꝛd, that in ſpeaking men pꝛonounce not moꝛe groſſe oꝛ ſmal, then the nature of language will allow, oꝛ otherwiſe then the accuſtomed manner of pꝛonunciation vſually permitted therein, as Vino, wine, not to pꝛonounce it as Engliſhmen doe, Veino, but ſmaller as they pꝛonounce the double ee, Veeno, Dios, God, not Deios, but Dheeos. But of this hereafter in the letters moꝛe at large.

The force of letters.

And becauſe Orthographie (the foꝛmer part of our Gꝛammar) chiefly conſiſteth in the true wꝛiting of euery wꝛd with his right letters: It muſt of neceſſitie follow, that whoſoeuer ſpeaketh, oꝛ heareth a tongue ſpoken in his pꝛoper Idioma, and would wꝛite downe the ſame ſo ſpoken, that he know the power and pꝛopꝛietie of each letter in that tongue (becauſe of letters are framed ſyllables, and of ſyllables are made wꝛds, and of wꝛds the whole ſpeech, and language) the which neglected, muſt nedes bꝛing a confuſion to the learner, and little oꝛ no fruit to the Teachers labour. Therefoꝛe to our purpoſe.

Letters.

There are in the Spaniſh tongue 27. letters, whereof 24. are ſingle, and thꝛee double.
The ſingle, A.b.c.ç.d.e.f.g.h.i.j.k.l.m.n.o.p.q.r.ſ.t.v.x.y.z.

Double letters.

The double are theſe, ch. ll. ñ.

Nota.

If any aſke the queſtion, why the Spaniſh, being deſcended from the Latine, hath in it moꝛe letters then the Latine: I anſwer, that although it be now (foꝛ the moſt part of wꝛds therein) coꝛꝛupt and bꝛoken Latine, yet it had at the firſt (as in the Pꝛoeme befoꝛe going) his oꝛiginall from the Caldean, Arabique, and Moores tongue, of which they reſerue ſome* letters.

* ç.g.j.x.z.

But now to our letters as they are in oꝛder in the Alphabet oꝛ croſſe row, without beginning with the bowels, and then ſkipping from one conſonant to another, diſtracting the memoꝛie of the young beginner in a tongue, which would much better retaine the pꝛecepts giuen thereon, ſo they might not be dꝛiuen to a new oꝛder of reckoning their letters, differing from that in their childhood they learned, and now can hardly be dꝛawne from.

A Is ſounded plainely, with opening the mouth as in the Latine, French, and Italian, as in Engliſh, man, can: ſo in Spaniſh, Manáda, a flocke, Enſaláda, a ſalade of herbs.

B Is as the Latine, and is called litera labialis, one of the labiall oꝛ lip letters, becauſe it cannot be pꝛonounced without ioyning the lips together. It is pꝛonounced as in Engliſh, baker, baſket: ſo in Spaniſh, Bacia, a bowle, Bárro, clay, but in the middeſt of a wꝛd, except the wꝛd come of the Latine, the Spaniard vſually confoundeth it with V conſonant, and ſoundeth

© Biblioteca Nacional de España

B and V consonant, written and pronounced one for another.

ſoundeth it as V conſonant, as Trabájo, trauell, they pronounce Travájo: Palábras, words, they ſound Palávras: Cábra, a goat, Cávra: Labór, labour, Lavór: Albárda, a packſaddle, Alvárda: Alabárda, a holbard, Alavárda: ſo oftentimes in the beginning of a word, as Baylár, to dance, Vaylár: Baſquiña, a peticoat, a kirtle, Vaſquiña: Bellóta, an acorne, Vellóta: Berméjo, red colour, Vermédjo: Bexíca, a bladder, Vexica. Wherefore I aduiſe the ſtudious in the Spaniſh tongue, if he finde not a word in the Dictionarie, in one of theſe letters, let him turne to the other: as if he find not Báyo, which is vſed in good Authors for Bay coloured, or Bayard, let him looke Váyo, and there he ſhall find the ſame: If not Vañár, to bathe, looke Bañár: If not Vóz, looke Bóz, a voice.

Nota.

B caſt away.

B In the middeſt of a word going before another conſonant, and making the pronunciation harder, is cut off in Spaniſh, as Subtil, they write, Sutil, Abſtínte, Auſénte, Obſcúro, Oſcúro, or Eſcúro.

C This letter hath two manner of ſoundings according to the vowels that follow it. If a o or u follow it, he is ſounded as k, as in Cára, a face, Cóco, ſweuell, Cuchára, a ſpoone: ſo likewiſe in the middle of a word, as Deſcánio, reſt, Eſcória, dreſſe, Eſcudilla, a diſh: but going before e or i pronounce almoſt as the Italian c, as Prudenza, Diſcalzo, or their t before ia or io, as Prudentia, Iuſtificatione, Cecina, powdred fleſh, Ciruéla, a plum.

C caſt away.

C Before t, cut off, as acto, an act: the Spaniard ſaith Á'to: Pacto, a couenant, Páto.

ç pronounced as the Italian c. ç pronounced as Engliſh Thſ.

Ç Marked with a daſh vnder it thus, ç, called ç Cerilla, or ç Cedílla, is proper to the Arabique tongue, from whence it was firſt taken: it is ſounded by putting the tongue to the rankes of the teeth, as the French ç, Vençа, or very neere: the Italian c, as Diligenza, Scienza. This ç muſt be ſo pronounced, whether it be at the beginning, end, or middle of a word, though a o or u follow: and is ſounded as in Engliſh Thſ, as çaraguélles, great gaſcoine or Spaniſh hoſe, çoçóbras, croſſe blowes of fortune, çúfre, brimſtone: pronounce Thſaraguélles, Thſoſóbras, Thſúfre, in like manner before e and i, as çenogiles, garters, çiénto, a hundred: pronounce Thſenogíles, Thſiénto.

D pronounced as Dh.

D Is pronounced in the beginning of a word, as in Latine, French, and Italian: as in Engliſh, Dagger, Doctor: ſo in Spaniſh, Dága, a dagger, Dóze, a dolen: this word Dios is excepte from this rule, and is pronounced as theſe that follow, that is, if d come in the middeſt or end of a word, you muſt pronounce him as d in Ezechiel, as dh in Engliſh, as Cáda, euery, Cádha, fidelidád, fidelitie, fidhelidhadh.

E Is as the Latine, and the Italian, and as in Engliſh, Bend, Lend: ſo in Spaniſh, Bendezír, to bleſſe, Bevér, to drinke: and it muſt neuer be ſounded ſo ſmall as the Engliſh æ, as fæ, wæ: nor ſo broad as the French doe their e feminine, as Femme, a woman, pronounced Famma, but betwixt both as firſt aboue.

F Is as the Latine and the Italian tongues, and inſt as the Engliſh. The Spaniard writeth him when the Latines write Ph, as Philoſophus, in Spaniſh Filóſofo.

Ga. Go, Gu. Gua.

G Answerable to the Hebrue Gimel, g hath two maner of ſoundings according to the vowels which follow it, if a o or u immediatly follow, it is pronounced as in the Latine, Gabriel, Gorgias, Gubernator: Italian, Galante, Gotta, Guſtare: French, Garçon, Gourmand: as in Engliſh, Gate, Gold, Cutter: ſo in Spaniſh, Gáfo, a lazar, a leper, Gófo, rude, Gúla, gluttonie.

Gue, Gui, like Ghe, Ghi.

But if after the u immediatly come a, as Guante, a glooue, ſound Gwante: Agua, water, Agwa: Mengua, want, Mengwa.

But if after u follow e or i, pronounce as the French Guerre, Guide: as in Engliſh Gueſt, guide: ſo in Spaniſh Guérra, warre, Guía, a guide: ſound Gherra, Ghia, except theſe words following, Guéro, adle, Aguéro, ſothſaying, Garguéro, the throat, Sirguéro, a drawer or tower of a boat with a roape, Hoguéro, a woodpile, Triguéro, a ſparrow that lieth in the wheat, Ciguéna, a ſtorke, Pediguéno, wanton, Halaguéño, flattering, Siguénça, a citie of Spaine, Verguénça, ſhame, Aguélo, a grandfather, Deguéllo, a beheading, Reguéldo, belking, Vnguénto, ointment: and words that come of the Infinitiue mode in Guár, as Enxaguár, to water, Enxágue, Menguár, to want, Mengue.

Ge, Gi, as je, ji, which is as in Engliſh ſhe, ſhi.

G Before e or i is ſounded as the Latine Gero: Italian, Giorno: French, Giſant: Engliſh, Geffrey, Giles: or more like the Spaniſh, called j iota, or j conſonant, which is pronounced as ſh in Engliſh: ſo they ſay Gémir, to groane, pronouncing as it were written in Engliſh ſhemur, Gingibre, ginger, ſhinſhibre.

G and j conſonant written one for another.

For the Spaniard maketh no difference in ſpeaking of this G before e and i, from the j conſonant, and they write one for another, as Agéno, Linage, Menſage, Liſongéro, Mageſtád, or Ajéno, Linaje, Menſaje, Lilonjéro, Majeſtád.

G Before n in the middle of a word loſt, as Ignomínia, Inomínia, ignominie, Ignoráncia, Inoráncia, ignorance.

H This letter is neither vowell nor conſonant, but a note of aſpiration, it is called in the Spaniſh as in the Engliſh Ache, which were more properly in my opinion to be called as ſome ſome nations doe, Ha, becauſe it doth ſo impoꝛt in pꝛonouncing as in Engliſh, Harmes, Harnes, Hate, Hang.

This H in the beginning of a woꝛd is pꝛonounced in Spaniſh with moꝛe vehemencie and emphaſis, and in the middle oꝛ end of a woꝛd weakely and faintly. H in beginning of a word.

In the beginning he muſt be pꝛonounced with moꝛe foꝛce, oꝛ elſe there would be no difference found in ſpeaking theſe woꝛds, and their like, Háca, a nagge: Acá hither: as Ven acá, come hither, Háſta, vntill, and Aſta foꝛ a ſpeare: Háya, a beech tree: A'ya, a nurſe: Húſo, a ſpindle: U'ſo, vſe.

In the middle of a woꝛd not ſo foꝛcible, as Ahechár, pꝛonounce as Aechár, Alholí, Aloli, a barne oꝛ garner. H in middle of a word.

This H goeth beꝛoꝛe all the fiue vowels, as Hazér, to make oꝛ doe: Hécho, made oꝛ done: Higado, the liuer: Hollín, the ſoꝛt of a chimney: Húſo, a ſpindle. But it may not in true Spaniſh oꝛthographie be witten beꝛoꝛe a conſonant, as Criſto, not Chriſto.

Beſides it is loſt after T, as Ortografía, not Orthografía, Teólogo, not Theólogo. H taken away.

With P alſo it is loſt, and the P turned into F, as Filóſofo, not Philóſopho, which they muſt obſerue that would wꝛite the Spaniſh tongue aright in all that are like theſe.

Where Ue followeth H, it is pꝛonounced as W, Huérto, an oꝛchard: Huéſſo, a bone: pꝛonounce Wuerto, Wueſſo: oꝛ as if G went beꝛoꝛe thus, Gwerto, Gweſſo, which I take to be moꝛe fit foꝛ the Engliſhmans pꝛonunciation foꝛ theſe and the like woꝛds. Hue pronounced as Wue.

That woꝛd which beginneth with H, ſhall not haue H in the middle, except C goe beꝛoꝛe it, as in Hécho, made, Hechizár, to bewitch, and the like.

I There be thꝛee kindes of I in the Spaniſh, that is, ſmall i, Gꝛæke y, and j Iota, oꝛ conſonant. Theſe two i, y, with a verie ſmall ſlender ſound, as the French and Italians doe, which is as the double e in Engliſh, wee, ſhee, fee, decree, ſo in Spaniſh, Tiráno, a tirant, Teerano: Vida, life, Veeda, & not as Engliſhmen pꝛonounce Teyráno, veida, which all other nations miſlike in hearing them ſpeaking Latine, ſaying, Propino tibi, they pꝛonounce Propeino tibi, which I would wiſh they would but marke, and take notice thereof: foꝛ the French, Italian, and Spaniard, doe learne and are taught by their Schoolemaſters to pꝛonounce the Latine different from their owne tongue, otherwiſe one nation ſhould not vnderſtand another ſpeaking the Latine. But in this tongue as in the Italian and French, they muſt obſerue, except they will fall into the vice of Iotaciſmus, and be laughed at, and not be vnderſtood by ſtrangers when they ſpeake oꝛ reade. I three kinds. A note for Engliſhmen.

This ſmall i is vſed in a woꝛd as a vowell by it ſelfe, as Tinta, ynche, and in a diphthong, as Niéto, a nephew. Small i.

Y is put in the beginning of a woꝛd beꝛoꝛe a vowell oꝛ conſonant, as yo, ya, yr, and in the end as Daréys, Podéys. Y.

J iota oꝛ j conſonant, which this tongue taketh of the Arabique, is pꝛonounced as in French, Jamais, Deja, Jehan, in Engliſh like ſh, as Jardín, a gardin, ſhardin, Járro, a pot, ſharro, ójo, an eie, Ocho, Hoja, a leafe, Hoſha: Oveja, a ſheepe, Ducha: Abeja, a bee, Abeſha: In beuill and thereabout, they pꝛonounce it not ſo much in the teeth, but moꝛe in the thꝛoat, as Cſhardin, Cſharro, Ozho, Hozha, Ovezha, Abezha. J pronounced like ſh.

Some authoꝛs in the Spaniſh wꝛite theſe woꝛds (yet ill) and the like, with H. Hieruſalem, Hierónimo, which ſhould be thus, Jeruſalem, Ierónimo.

K The Spaniard neuer vſeth this letter but when it is required of the Gꝛæke and pꝛoper names then ſounded as in the Engliſh, as Kalendas.

L, M, N, O, P. Are all pꝛonounced as in the Latine, French, Italian, and iuſt as in Engliſh: But P may not be doubled in Spaniſh, as Aprovar, to appꝛoue, Apetíto, appetite, and not Approvár, Appetito. P beꝛoꝛe T in the middle of a woꝛd loſt, as Captívo, pꝛonounce Cautivo. P not doubled. P caſt away.

Neither can L be doubled in Spaniſh when the woꝛd commeth of the Latine, and keepeth the Latine ſound, as Ilúſtre, in Latine Illuſtris: Sílaba, in Latine Syllaba: Colégio, Collegium. So likewiſe of N, as Tiráno, not Tiránno, in Latine Tyrannus, but when theſe keepe not the ſound of the Latine, looke hereafter in double Ll, ñ, and there you ſhall finde how they are pꝛonounced. When L not doubled. When N not doubled.

Q hath two pꝛonunciations, not of his owne nature, but by reaſon of a vowell following him. Nota.

If ua follow, as in Latine and Engliſh, Quantitie, Quartey, ſo in Spaniſh Quándo, when, Quartána, Quál.

But when ue oꝛ ui follow, it is to be pꝛonounced as the Italian, Che, Chi, oꝛ the French Que, Qui, as Engliſh Ke, Ki, as Queſtión, a Queſtion oꝛ quarrell, Keſtion, Quiéto, quiet, Kieto, except when the woꝛd is Latine, as Delinquente, Eloquente. Que, Qui, pronounced as Ke, Ki.

R With

© Biblioteca Nacional de España

R With the Græcks and Latines termed Litera canina, ſo the Spaniard calleth him Letra perrina, the doggiſh letter, becauſe dogs in grinning their teeth, when they would bite, ſound this letter R. It is pronounced as the Latine, Italian, and French, but if it be in the beginning of a word it is ſounded ſtrongly, as the Grecians doe ſound. The Spaniard ſaith Ráyo, a ſun beame, Réy, a king, or if it be doubled in the middeſt of a word, you cannot ſound with two great vehemencie, as Bárro, Clay, Cárro, a Cart. But if it be in the middeſt of a word and ſingle, with a gentle and milde pronunciation, as ára, an altar, Móro, a blacke Moze.

S made like a ſnake doubled with his head liſted vp.

S With x. z. and ç. are pronounced (although the one more plaine and ſounding, and the reſt leſſe) by putting the tongue to the roſe of the mouth, and then hiſſing out the voyce with the lips open as a ſnake, and therefore the Græcks called this letter S by that hiſſing name, as alſo made it in faſhion double as a ſnake, with his head lifted vp, accordingly is it made in Latine, Italian, and Spaniſh. In Spaniſh theſe letters are called Culebrinas, which is ſnakie, of Culébra, a ſnake, which doth hiſſing.

This S in the beginning of a word as in Latine, Italian, and French, and as in Engliſh Sand, Sæth, Sin, Sod, Sudden, ſo in Spaniſh Sabér, Sembrár, Sóbra, Sudór.

But if S be ſingle in the middeſt of a word betweene two vowels, then with a gentle ſound almoſt like Z, as the French doe, adding thereby great grace to their tongue, as Egliſe a Church, Cauſe, ſo in Spaniſh, Cauſa, Roſa, úſo, púſo. But if it be doubled, then ſtrongly, as in Engliſh Troſſed, toſſed, ſo in Spaniſh Fuéſſemos, gruéſſo.

Nota, S neuer in beginning of a word except a vowell follow.

In the end of a word as Z, as Cártas, Letters, Cámaras, Chambers, or going to ſtoole. And note that this letter cannot be in the beginning of a word when a conſonant next followeth. Therefore you muſt write Eſpéro, I hope, and not Spéro. Eſcrívo, I write, and not Scrívo.

Ti neuer turned in Ci in Spaniſh, as in other tongues.

T Is pronounced as in the Latine, Italian, French and Engliſh, except it can neuer ſound ci, as the Latines, Italians, French and Engliſh doe when after t followeth i with a vowell, as in Latine Prudentia, Italian, Amicitia, French Juſtification, Engliſh Ambition, in Spaniſh it muſt be written Prudéncia, Amicícia, Juſtificación, Ambición, otherwiſe the writing were falſe, and you ſhould pronounce Ti as in Tibi.

Alſo if H follow T, as Theólogo, Theopómpo, write and pronounce Teólogo, Teopómpo.

U pronounced broad as ou.

U Being a vowell not to be pronounced with a ſmall ſound as Engliſh, Stue, Blue, Crue, Iſſue, but as the French doth in his diphthong ou, almoſt as the Engliſh ou, as Tu, tou, Buche, the maw, Bouche. But being a conſonant is pronounced as in other languages in the beginning of a word, as Váca, a Cow, Véna, a Veine, Víno, Wine, Vóto, a Vow, Vúlgo, the common people, in the middeſt of a word as Aváro, Gávia, Iiva. Alſo when two u come together, and a vowell following, the ſecond is a conſonant, as úvo, Túve, except Vuéſtro.

X pronounced as ſh. X and j written often in Spaniſh one for another.

X Is one of the Culebrínas létras, the ſnakie or hiſſing letters, as aboue ſaid in the letter S, and is pronounced like J conſonant, and the Spaniard often writeth one for another, as Xaráue, Carrup, Jaráue, and is pronounced as the French ch, as the Engliſh ſh, as Faxa, a Waſtband, Brúxa, a hag, Flóxo, Weake, Fáſha, Bruſha, Floſho.

Y As aboue in I.

Z Is called in Spaniſh Zéta, as the Hebrew Zain, from whence it is drawne, and from the Moꝛiſh tongue, and is pronounced as the Engliſh Z, as Zángano, a droane, Zélo, zeale, Zodíaco, the Zodiacke, ſo likewiſe in the end of a word, as Bóz, a voice, Crúz, a Croſſe.

Ch as in Engliſh Ch.

Ch Before any of the fiue vowels to be pronounced as in Engliſh, Chapman, Chiefely, Chicken, Chop, Chooſe: ſo in Spaniſh, Chamelóte, Chamlet: Chiminéa, a Chimney: Chórro, a drooke: Chúſma, a company of people of the common ſort.

Ll pronounced as Li.

Ll As gl in Italian, as Cavagli, Moglie, Figli, as double Ll in French, as Fille, Coquille, as Li in Engliſh, as Lláno, plaine: Lléno, full: Llovér, to raine: Llúvia, raine: pronounce Liáno, Liéno, Liovér, Liuvia: ſo likewiſe in the middle of a word, as Querrellóſo, Kerrelioſo, quarrelſome: in the end of a word neuer in Spaniſh written double, as Mil, a thouſand, not Mil.

ñ pronounced as ni.

ñ As the Italian and French gn, Montagna, Campagna, French Compaignon, Mignon, in Engliſh as nt: as Montáño, a mountaine, Montania, Campáña, Campania, ſo Dáño, loſſe, Dannyo, Báño, a bath, Bannyo.

Of Orthographie in Diphthongs.

A Diphthong (according to the definition of Grammarians) is a ſounding together of two different vowels, as if they were but one only, as in Engliſh, Aide, Iudiſor. Definition of Diphthongs.

In Spaniſh there are twelue ſorts.

The firſt in ai, or ay, as gaita, andáys, cantáis. But when two vowels come together and make more then one ſound, they ſhould be marked ouer head with two pricks, to take away confuſion, as Caída, pronounced Caída, and ſo the reſt. 1. Ai, ay.

The ſecond in ao, where a is more ſounded then o, as Quartáo, a nag, Saráo, a hall to dance in, Vilbáo, a proper name of a towne, are pronounced in the ſame ſort, as Cats mault. 2. Ao.

The third in au, where a ſounds more then u, as Cánſa, Autór, Caudillo: except Laúd, a lute, Ataúd, a tombe: La-úd, Ata-úd. 3. Au.

The fourth in ei and ey, where e is more ſounded then i, as Réy, a king, Léy, a law: when they are ſeuered, write them with two pricks thus, Leïſtes, Reïr. 4. Ei, ey.

The fift in eu, where e is moſt perceiued, as Féudo, Déudo, Réuma: being diſcerned write thus: Reüatar, Reüngír. 5. Eu.

The ſixt in ia, in which a is more heard ſound then i, as Saia, Vaia, Malícia, Preſéncia: except Mia, Dia, Porſía, Deſvía. 6. Ia.

The ſeuenth ie, ye, where e is moſt heard pronounced, as Viénto, Sciénto, Viéne, Bién, Quién, Quiéra, Arriéndo, Diſpiérto, Apriéto, Pie, Piédra, Tiérra, Ciélo, Infierno, Diéz, Siéte, Miél, Hiél. 7. Ie, ye.

The eight in io, or yo, where o is moſt ſounded, as Yo, Dió, Vió: except Mío, Río, Frío, Tío. 8. Io, yo.

The ninth in iu, where i is more heard then the u, as Ciudád, a citie. 9. Iu.

The tenth in oi, or oy, as Soy, Doy, Voy, Oygo: except Oy'do, Roy'do. 10. Oi, oy.

The eleuenth in ue, where e is more ſounded then u, as Fuérça, Muérte, Fuérte, Cuerno, Nuevo, Fuégo, Huélgo, Nuéz, Vihuéla. 11. Ue.

The twelft in ui, and uy, where u is more ſounded then the i, as Muy, Fuy, Cuidádo, Húyo. 12. Ui, uy.

Foure Rules following ſhewing how euery vowell maketh a ſeuerall ſyllable by himſelfe, or is ſounded in diphthong with another.

The firſt Rule.

If betweene two vowels come h, or a conſonant, ſuch vowels cannot ioyne themſelues together to make a ſyllable or diphthong, as Ahínco, Bolár, except Auré, Aurás, Aurá, Auremos, Aurcys, where u r and the vowell make a ſyllable, the like in Auria, Auríamos. The firſt Rule.

The ſecond Rule.

Any two vowels comming together, neither of them being i nor u, make two ſyllables, as Neémias, Poſſéer, Roér, except theſe Hebrew words which end in two ee, as Oleé, Bethlehem, Berſabeé. The ſecond Rule.

The third Rule.

When the firſt perſon of a verbe doth end in two vowels, and the firſt vowell being i, and the accent ſtand vpon the ſame i, then that i maketh a ſyllable of it ſelfe without ioyning it ſelfe with the vowell following, as Embío, Embías, Embía, Embiámos. Porſio, Porſias, Porſían. Eſpío, Eſpías, Eſpían. Confío, Confías, Confía. The third Rule.

The fourth Rule.

But if the word doth end in two vowels, and the firſt of them being i, and the accent not on the firſt, then they make both the vowels a diphthong into a ſyllable, as Grácia, Juſticia, Daniél, Ezechiél, Gabriél, Senténcia, Victória, and in like ſort doe they when they haue the accent on the laſt of them, as Paſſión, Religión, Nación, Caución, Ración, becauſe they come of words of the Latine that haue their accent in the Antepenultima, therefore muſt the Spaniſh haue it in the Vltima. Except theſe words in Spaniſh, Anciáno, Diocleſiáno, Diáblo. The fourth Rule.

Of Triphthongs.

A Triphthong is a ſounding of three vowels into one ſyllable with one breath together, and that after fiue ſorts. Definition of a Triphthong.

The firſt in iai, or yay, as Vayáys, Eſpaciáys, where a is heard more then i. 1. iay, yay.

The ſecond iey or yey, where e is more ſounded then i, as Enſuziéys. 2. iey, yey.

The third in iue or yue, where e is heard more then u, as Hoyuélo, Arroyuélo. 3. iue, yue.

The fourth in uai or uay, as Guáy. 4. uai, uay.

The fift in uei or uey, as Buéy, Buéytre. 5. uei, uey.

Of Prosodia or Accents, the second part of this Grammar.

AS Orthographie handleth letters, so Prosodie treateth of syllables, and the right sounding and pronouncing the same with their true accents, which is to make the syllable or word long or short, soft or sharpe, without the which the learner cannot tell how to read or pronounce the tongue, much lesse to be understood when he speaketh the same, whereby he shall be not onely disgraced, but be driuen to bestow longer time, in forgetting that ill touch taken vp, then he might be in going forward in learning fiue times so much. The which being carefully looked vnto at the first, cannot but much adorn the speaker, make himselfe vnderstood, as also giue himselfe exceeding comfort in going forward, when he knoweth he singeth true harmony, which cannot but delight those that will listen thereto.

Description of Prosodia.

Prosodia, is a rule or knowledge, shewing with what accent euery syllable of a word is to be pronounced, as Cárcel, not Carcél, a prison.

Spanish not subiect to Latine accents.

Many haue affirmed the Spanish tongue to be subiect to the Latine accents, seeing it is for the most part deriued from the same, but common speech and vse shew the contrary in manie words, as Latine Génesis, in Spanish Genesis, Sódoma, in Spanish Sodóma, Hélena, Heléna, so in Latine ámor, in Spanish amór, autor, autór, Cérasus, Cerézo. But yet note this, that words deriued of the Latine doe keepe the accent of the Latine, except some proper names or words ending in d, l, n, or r, as Abstinéntia, Abstinéncia, Obediéntia, Obediéncia, Beneficio, Blándo, Caduco, Ceremónia, Cúlpa, Digno, Dóte, Familia, Fecóndo, Furióso, Prémio.

Of the Latine, the Latine accent.

Words ending in D, L, N, or R, accented in the last syllable.

But if they end in d, l, n, or r, then they haue alwaies the accent in the last syllable, as Amistád, Pestilenciál, Camelón, Pastór.

Except these.

Except some few ending in l, n, and r, ángel, ábil, apóstol, árbol, jóven, lóor, ánsar, ámbar, acíbar, açúcar, açófar, alcáçar, nácar, tíbar, cármen, cáncer, carácter, cárcel, Cristóval, cónsul, crímen, débil, deficil, móbil, Immóbil, fócil, dócil, Estéril, estiércol, Fácil, Dátil, Frágil, v'til, inv'til, fértil, inábil, mástil, márgen, mártir, mármol, Trébol, órden, orígen, vírgen, exámen, volúmen, imágen, betúmen, Estévan, and verie few or none besides these, for that in setting these downe I ran ouer (as neere as I could) euery word in the whole Dictionarie, whereby you may coniecture, what paines, trouble, and time, such bookes of such method as this haue bestowed on them, before they can come forth to shew to the learner in a moment, that which the compoler can hardly find out in a moneth: but if any other there be, I haue accented them in their places, as all the words generally in the whole Dictionarie whatsoeuer, to make the beginner, and also the well read to be perfect in the pronunciation, without which he shall be derided, as not vnderstood when he readeth or speaketh.

Nota.

All Nounes in ion, and in or, accent in the last syllable, as Occasión, Predicadór, so also in l, s, z, as Alcauci, Cortés, Pertináz, Cervíz, except Adives, a beast in Barbarie like a Foxe, which barketh and cryeth in the night as loud as a Foxe.

Opus laboris.

2 Accents in one word.

Although in the Latine there is in no word but one accent dominant, yet in the Spanish often are two found, as Ciértaménte, Fuértaménte, wherefore I will set downe the order of the Spanish accenting, first giuing example of those words which continually are accented, then of those which are somtimes, and somtimes not; last of all, those which haue two or three accents.

These words alwayes accented, as

Hé há
y'd y'r aquí acá séd sóy cál bóz
grán áy
Augustín acullá.

These words following sometime accented, sometime not, as Al, If it be an article, it is not accented, as Dezíd al Señór ésto, Tell your master this. But if it be not an article, it is then accented, as Pensád en ál, Thinke on something.

Aun, When que followeth it is not accented, as Pédro aunque sépa morír no hará, Peter although he knew he should die, he would not doe it. But asking a question it is then accented, as Aún duérmes Pedro? Doe you sleepe yet Peter?

Ante, Being a Prepolition is not accented, as Ante Dios estámos, we stand before God. But being an Aduerbe it is accented, as Anté víno Pédro que Juán, Peter came before Iohn.

Cerca,

© Biblioteca Nacional de España

Cerca, a Prepoſition, not accented, as Cerca tódos dád buén exémplo, Above all giue good example. But if it be a Verbe, Aduerbe, or Noune, or this particle De going before or following, then it is accented, as El Rey cérca con ſu génte, que tiéne, cerca de ſi, la ciúdad y la rodéa, cérca tóda, y tiéne la cérca de piédra, y de cérca páréce fuérte. The king doth beſiege with his people, which he hath about him, the citie, and compaſſeth it all about, neere vnto it, which hath his wall of ſtone, and neere hand it ſeemeth ſtrong. Note.

De mi, A poſſeſſiue not accented, as De mi pádre heredé virtúd, Of my father I inherited vertue. But if it be not a poſſeſſiue it is accented, as De mí habláys ſegun véo, You ſpeake of me as I perceiue.

Del, The article not accented, as Del virtuóſo es la virtúd amáda, Vertue is beloued of the honeſt. But if it be a Pronoune it is accented, as Dios és buéno y dél nos viéne el bién, God is good, and from him commeth goodnes.

Do, Spoken indefinitely not accented, as Do eſtuviére el buéno eſtaré yo, Where the good man ſhall be, there will I be alſo. But ſpoken in asking a queſtion it is accented, as Dónde está Juán? Where is Iohn?

El, Being an Article not accented, as El buéno téme a Dios, The iuſt feareth God. If it be a Pronoune then accented, as Criſto nos áma y él nos redimió, Chriſt loueth vs, and he it is that hath redeemed vs.

Entre, A Prepoſition not accented, as Entre los ſántos deſſéo eſtár, I deſire to be among the godly. But being a Verbe is accented, as Entré Pédro y no Juán, Let Peter enter and not Iohn.

Mas, The Coniunction not accented, as No hagáis mal, mas hazéd bien, Doe not euill but doe good. But being an Aduerbe, then it is, as Más quiéto bíve, &c. y es más querído, He liueth more at quiet, &c. and is better beloued.

Medio, In compoſition not accented, as Medio en burlas, médio en véras, Halfe in ieſt, halfe in earneſt. If alone, then otherwiſe, as Tenéd el médio en coſas, Keepe a meane in matters.

Nos, Not accented, as Hábla nos Jeſus, Chriſt telleth vs. But if it be a nominatiue caſe to the verbe, then it is, as Nós queremos, We will, &c.

Vn, Not accented, as Vn hómbre, A man. But if y the Coniunction goe before, then it is, as Dí le pán, y ún reál, I gaue him bread and fix pence.

These words following not accented, as

Alo, Alos, Aunque, Con, De, Dela, Delo, Delas, Delos, De mis, Deſde, Deſque, Don, Doña, E, En, En mis, Enlo, Enlos, Enla, Enlas, Fray, Y, Lo, Le, Me, Micer, Moſſen, as Micer ſancho, y Moſſen Pedro viénen, Maſter Sanches and Maſter Peter comes. Ni, Os, Pero, Pues, Por, Quan, Quel, San, Si, Su, So, Tan, Tal. Vnto all the Articles while they keepe the nature of Articles, which are theſe,

A, al, ala, alo, alas, alos,
Del, dela, delo, delos, delas,
El, la, las, Lo, los, le, les.

Words of two Accents.

A'ltaménte, Hártobáſta, Buénaménte, Biénditaménte, Ciértaménte, Bienaventuradaménte, Diéſtraménte, Gráveménte, Graſióſaménte, Yguálmente, Iúntaménte, Luéngaménte, Magnificaménte, Razonáblemente, Ráraménte, Sábiaménte. Words of two Accents.

Words of three Accents.

Of Etymologie and the Noune.

Definition of Etymologie.

Etymologie, is a Rule of shewing and searching out the Originall of wordes, with that pertaineth to them.

This searching out of originall and descendence of wordes is considered in diuers manners: but among the rest, for the beginners in any language whatsoeuer, this is so necessarie, that without it, they could not vnderstand or learne it: the which by the Latine Grammarians hath beene, and is called Declension and Coniugation (which is likewise a declination) but that the former is of the Nounes, and the other of the Verbes.

The Spanish hath eight parts of Speech, as the Latine.

Noune, Pronoune, Verbe, Participle, } declined. Aduerbe, Coniunction, Preposition, Interiection, } vndeclined.

Of the Noune.

Primitiue. Deriuatiue.

Nounes be diuided into Substantiues and Adiectiues, which are likewise diuided into Primitiues, Deriuatiues.

The Primitiue, which is not deriued of any other, but is Primum, of himself, as Abéja, a Bee.

The Deriuatiue, is drawne from the Primitiue, as Abejonázo, a great Bee.

And of like nature to these Primitiue nounes, are these Interrogatiues, Reddituues, and Numerals following.

Interrogatiue.

To the Primitiue, these following, and the like are subiect, as

The Interrogatiue, as Quién? who? Quál? what manner? Quánto? how much? Quántos? how many?

The Relatiue which answereth to the Interrogatiue, as tal, such a one, Tantos, so many.

Numerall.

The Numerall to which these kinds following doe belong, as Cardinall.

Cardinal, from which as from a fountaine the rest doe spring, these doe I wish the learner to haue by heart.

Of Numbers.

To Nounes as well Subſtantiues as Adiectiues, there are theſe affections following belonging, Number, Caſe, Gender.

The Number ſheweth the quantity, the Caſe the qualitie, and the Gender the ſex.

There are two Numbers. The Singular and the Plurall. Numbers.

The Singular ſpeaking of one, as Libro, a booke.

The Plurall of moe, as Libros, bookes.

This is a generall Rule, if the ſingular number doe end in a vowell, the plurall number is made by putting to s, as Palábra, palábras, Cuérpo, cuérpos, Muérte, muértes, Javalí, javalís. Note.

Except ſome few, which muſt haue es added to them, as Rey, réyes, Léy, léyes, Fe, fées, Buéy, buéyes, ſo in this manner all nounes ending in conſonants muſt haue es added to them, as Mercéd, mercédes, Ciudád, ciudádes, Mortál, mortáles, Paſtór, paſtóres, &c.

Of Caſes.

The Spaniſh hath Caſes as the Latine, but all in one ending or termination, and are declined with an article, as the Nominatiue with el la, the Genitiue with the Pzepoſition De, as the Italian and French, the Datiue Para, the Accuſatiue a, the Ablatiue as the Genitiue, de. Caſes.

Of Genders.

There are three, { The Maſculine, as El Pádre, the father. / The Feminine, as La Mádre, the mother. / The Neuter, which is of ſmall vſe with the Spaniard, as Lo ſincéro, Lo malo, for they ſpeake by the Subſtantiue, as La Sinceridád, El mal. } Genders.

Rules to know the gender of moſt part of Nounes.

To know the Genders, obſerue well theſe Rules following.

All nounes ending in l, o, or r, are commonly of the Maſculine gender, as Cardinál, a Cardinall, Cárdo, a Thiſtle, Paſtór, a Shepherd. Except la Cárcel, a pziſon, la Piél, the ſkin, la Canál, a Gutter, la Equinoctiál, the Equinoctiall, la Naual, a battell at ſea, la Hiél, gall, la Sál, Salt, la Máno, a hand. Nota. Nounes in l, o, r, Maſculine. Exception.

All Nounes for the moſt part in a, d, or ion, are of the Feminine gender, as Manteca, Butter, Mageſtád, Maieſty, Deliberación, Deliberation. Nounes in a, d, ion, feminine.

Names of trees commonly the Maſculine gender, and the fruits the feminine, as

El Perál, a Peare tree.	La Péra, the Peare.
El Ciruélo, a Plum tree.	La Ciruéla, the Plum.
El Narránjo, an Orange tree.	La Narránja, the Orange.
El Cidro, the Citron tree.	La Cidra, the Citron fruit.
El Mançáno, the Apple tree.	La Mançána, the Apple.
El Camuéſo, the Pippen tree.	La Camuéſa, the Pippen.
El Cerézo, the Cherrie tree.	La Ceréza, the Cherrie.
El Alméndro, the Almond tree.	La Alméndra, the Almond.
El Avelláno, the Hazell nut tree.	La Avellána, the Hazell nut.
El Caſtáño, the Chelnut tree.	La Caſtáña, the Chelnut.
El Nogál, the Walnut tree.	La Nuez, the Wall nut.
El Azeytúno, the Olive tree.	La Azeytúna, the Olive.
El Olívo, idem.	La Oliva, idem
El Morál, the Mulbery tree.	La Móra, the Mulbery fruit.
El Granádo, the Pomgranat tree.	La Granáda, the Pomgranate.

Exception. Except theſe whoſe tree and fruit are both Maſculine, as

- El Menbrillo, the Quince tree and Quince fruit.
- El Limon, the Limon tree and fruit.
- El Alvérchigo, the Apricocke tree and fruit.
- El Avercóque, idem.
- El Péro, the tree and fruit of a kinde of Apple, very raw and cold by nature, good to roſt, red on one ſide.

Another exception. Except theſe alſo whoſe fruit is the Maſculine & tree the Feminine, as El Higo, the Fig.	La Higuéra, the Fig tree. (tree.

El Dátil, the Date.	La Pálma, the Date tree or Palme
El Razimo, the bunch of grapes.	La Parra, the Vine, or La vid.

Verbals in or make themſelues feminine by putting to a.

Verbals in or are of the maſculine gender, and make themſelues feminine, by putting to a, as Habladór, a prater, Habladóra, a ſhe prater.

Likewiſe Nounes in o, make their feminine, by changing o into a, as Honrádo, honoured; Honráda: Suégro, a father in law, Suégra, a mother in law.

Of Declenſions and of the Article.

Declenſion of the Article. The Spaniſh (as likewiſe the Italian and French) haue but one manner of Declenſion or declining, that is with the Article, which in Spaniſh is thus declined:

Article maſculine Sing.		Plu.
Nom. el.		Nom. los.
Gen. del, de lo.		Gen. de los.
Dat. Para el, Para lo.		Dat. para los.
Acc. a el, al, alo.		Acc. alos.
Ab. del, delo.		Ab. delos.

The Feminine Article thus.

Article feminine Sing.		Plu.
Nom. la.		Nom. las.
Gen. de la.		Gen. de las.
Dat. para la.		Dat. para las.
Acc. al, ala.		Accuſ. a las.
Ab. de la.		Ab. de las.

In the Spaniſh (as Italian and French) the Article Maſculine is put oftentimes in ſtead of the Feminine, when the word beginneth with a vowell, as el agua, the water, el alma, the ſoule: to make the pronunciation more ſweet Euphoniæ gratia, and it may alſo be put la agua, la alma.

Note. Alſo in the Spaniſh (as Italian and French) the Article is never ſeparated from Nounes Appellatiues, neither in Singular nor Plurall number: as Spaniſh, el libro, los libros, la cámara, a chamber, las cámaras. But in Nounes proper it is not vſed ſo: for it were abſurd to ſay, el Franciſco, la Iuána: neither is it vſed with this word Dios, except there be ioyned with it ſome Epitheton, as el Dios todo poderóſo, God almightie.

Adiectiues are declined like the Substantiues both ſingular and plurall number.

Comparatiues and Superlatiues.

The Spaniſh to make comparíſon, in the comparatiue degree vſeth this participle Mas, as Mas diligénte, moze diligent, Mas vil, moze vile: and to diminiſh, they vſe Ménos, as Ménos diligénte, leſſe diligent, Ménos vil, leſſe vile. Comparatiues.

The Superlatiue.

The Superlatiue is made of this particle Muy, as Muy iuſto, very iuſt: ſometime with exaggerating and magnifying a matter, they foꝛme their Superlatiues from noumes Adiectiues, as Iluſtríſſimo, Humaníſſimo, Hermoſíſſima, moſt excellent, moſt humane, moſt beautifull. Superlatiues.

Theſe following thus compared:
Buéno, mejór, oz mas buéno.
Malo, peór, muy málo.
Gránde, mayór, muy gránde, oz Grandíſſimo.
Chico, menór, oz mas chico, muy chico.
Mucho, mas, muy mucho, oz muchíſſimo.
Poco, ménos, muy poco.

There be alſo Aduerbs of qualitie which are vſed with Comparatiue and Superlatiue, as nounes whereof they come, as Muy mas elegantemente, much moze eloquently. Muy mas diſcretamente, much moze diſcreetly. In like manner, Prepoſitions, as Detrás, behinde, mas Detrás, moze behinde, muy Detrás, much behinde, : Debáxo, beneath oz vnder, mas Debáxo, moze below oz vnder, muy Debáxo, much vnder oz beneath.

A Pronoune.

The Spaniſh Pronoune is as the Latine, like a Noune, and is vſed in rehearſing, of a proper name, of Pro and Nomen, i. foꝛ the name, and in ſpeech is vſed therefoꝛe.

Pronounes are diuided into { Primitiues and Deriuatiues.

The Primitiues are theſe, yo, tu, ſi, éſte, aquéſte, el, éſſe, aquél, el qual, que, quien, miſmo, to which Miſmo all befoꝛe going may be coupled, as yo miſmo, I my ſelfe: tu miſmo, thou thy ſelfe, ſi miſmo, himſelfe: el miſmo, he himſelfe, and ſo may you ſay yo miſma, tu miſma, &c. they are called Primitiues becauſe they are Primi, firſt, and not deriued of others, Primitiues.

Primitiues diuided into { Demonſtratiues. Relatiues.

They are called Demonſtratiues becauſe they ſhew a thing not ſpoken of befoꝛe, as yo, tu, ſi, aquel, eſte, el. Demonſtratiues.

Relatiues as repeating oz hauing relation to ſome thing ſpoken befoꝛe, as el, eſte, que, quien, el qual. Relatiues.

Deriuatiues oz Poſſeſſiues, becauſe they be deriued of the Primitiues and ſignifie poſſeſſion, as belonging to ſome thing, as mio, oz mi: tuyo, oz tu: ſuyo, oz ſu, nuéſtro, vuéſtro. Deriuatiues.

In Pronounes are chiefly to be noted, the Perſons, becauſe all Nounes and Particiꝑies ples be of the third Perſon, but Pronounes of all three Perſons, as yo and his Plurall nos, be of the firſt Perſon, Tu and his Plurall vos, of the ſecond: and all the reſt whatſoeuer of the third Perſon, according to this rule. All Nounes, Pronounes and Participles, be of the third Perſon, except yo and tu.

The firſt perſon Yo, thus declined.

Yo declined.

Sing.	Nom. yo.	Plu.	Nom. nos, noſótros.	Fem.	Noſótras.
	Gen. de mi.		Gen. de nos, de noſótros.		de noſótras.
	Dat. Para mi.		Dat. Para nos, para noſótros.	Plu.	Para noſótras.
	Acc. a mi, a me.		Accuſ. a nos, a noſótros.		a noſótras.
	Ab. de mi.		Ab. de nos, de noſótros.		de noſótra.

Note. This Pronoune in the ſingular number ſerueth as well for the Maſculine as Feminine gender, ſo in the Plurall doth Nos. But Noſótros only to the Maſculine, and Noſótras to the Feminine.

The Spaniard in ſpeech and writing vſeth this Pronoune Nos with the firſt perſon Plurall of the Imperatiue mood, by taking away s, from the Verbe, as Vámonos, for Vámos Nos, let vs goe: Dexámonos, for Dexámos Nos, let vs leaue.

From this Pronoune Primitiue are two other derined, one from the Singular number, as Mio from yo, another from the Plurall number, as Nueſtro from Noſótros.

Mi and Mio. Mio, Mia, in Latine Meus, mea, meum, in Italian Mio, mia, in French Mon, ma.

Example.

		Maſcul.	Fem.		Maſcul.	Fem.

	Acc. a mi, a mio.	a mia.		Accu. a mis, a mios.	a mias.
	Ab. de mi, de mio.	de mia.		Ab. de mis, de mios.	de mias.

The learner in the Spaniſh muſt note, the manner how the Spaniard vſeth theſe Poſſeſſiues, Mi, mio, Tu, tuyo, Su, ſuyo: and when he ought to vſe them in ſpeech or writing, otherwiſe ſtraight he will bewray himſelfe in vſing vnproperly the tongue.

A rule when Mi, tu, ſu, and Mio, tuyo, ſuyo, are to be vſed. Mi, tu, ſu, are ſtill vſed, ioyned with another word, as Mi cavállo, my horſe, not Mio cavallo: Tu pienſamento, thy thought, not Tuyo pienſamento: Su provécho, his profit, not Suyo Provécho.

Note. But when a queſtion is aſked, and Mio, Tuyo, Suyo, put abſolutely and not ioyned, as Cuya es eſſa eſpáda? whoſe rapier is this? Anſwer: Mia, tuya, ſuya, mine, thine, his: and not Mi, tu, ſu: De quien es eſte cuchillo? whoſe knife is this? Anſwer, Mio, tuyo, ſuyo: and not, Mi, tu, ſu. In like ſort when they make a relation of a thing ſpoken of before, and are placed at the end of a ſentence, clauſe or period, as Eſte cavallo no es mio, mas de aquél que a mi lo dexó, paraque yo fuéſſe a vna caſa tuya: this horſe is not mine but his that left it me, that I ſhould ride to one of thy houſes, and you cannot ſay, Eſte cavallo es mi, que yo fueſſe a vna caſa tu.

These and many ſuch like I wiſh the learner in the Spaniſh to marke diligently in authors as he reades.

S. added maketh Plurall number. To make the Plural number of Mi, Tu, Su, adde to s, as Mis, Tus, Sus, and ſo of other words whatſoeuer, as before of numbers in the Noune.

This other derined from the Plurall Noſótros is thus declined.

Note. Note that the Spaniard moſt ordinarily ioyneth to the Infinitiue mood of any verbe, this particle os, which is as much as vos, as Habláros, to ſpeake vnto you, Véros, to ſee you, Deziros, to tell you.

Of this Primitiue likewiſe come two Deriuatiues, the one of the Singular number, as of Tu comes Tuyo, in Latine Tuus, tua, tuum, Italian, Tuo, Tua, French Ton, Ta. The other of the Plurall, Vos, or Voſótros, comes Vuéſtro.

Example.

		Maſcul.	Fem.			Maſcul.	Fem.

	Abl.	de Tu, de Túyo,	de Túya.		Abl.	de Tus, de Túyos,	de Túyas.

Nota, how the Spaniard vſeth Tu, and the ſecond Plu.

But note how the Spaniard and Italian accounteth it a diſgrace to ſpeake to any man in the ſecond perſon ſingular either in the Nominatiue Tu, or in other caſes Ti or Te, except it be to his Meager, his ſlaue, his lackie, horſekeeper, or to ſome of baſe & vile account. To their ſeruants of the better reckoning, and to artificers and ſuch like perſons they ſpeake in the ſecond perſon Plurall, as Traéd aqui, bring hither, &c. Yréys a mi çapitéro, you ſhal goe to my ſhoomaker, Direys que me haga unos borzeguis, and you ſhall tell him that he make me a paire of buſkins.

Nota.

To all others they vſe the third perſon, as Quiere V.M. andár, Will your Maſterſhip goe? Ruéga a V. M. que me haga eſſa merced, &c. I intreat your Maſterſhip that you doe me this courteſie, &c.

Nota.

And whereas Engliſhmen ſay, You, the French Vous, the Spaniard and the Italian ſpeaketh in the third perſon ſingular, as V.M. V.S. your Maſterſhip or worſhip.

Nota.

The other Deriuatiue of the plurall number is this, Vuéſtro, of Vos or Voſótros, in Latine Veſter, Veſtra, Veſtrum, in Italian Voſtro, Voſtra, French Voſtre, in Engliſh yours.

Su, Súyo.

I proceed with the examples of all the Pronounes following by declining them, becauſe as I before ſaid, it is one of the difficulteſt things in the tongue to haue the true vſe of them, and whereby a ſtranger or the vnlearned in his ſpech or writing, ſhall ſoneſt diſcouer himſelfe to the naturall or learned in the tongue. Wherefore let not onely the yongue learner, but alſo the well grounded, and thoſe that are able to diſcourſe and write the tongue well, obſerue how and when theſe Pronounes following (ſo little differing the one from the other) are to be vſed in their due time and place as followeth:

Nota the difference of theſe Pronounes following.

E'ſte, Aquéſte.

These two, E'ſte and Aquéſte, doe ſignifie vnto vs any thing that is neere vs, in that ſignification as the Latine, Hic, hæc, hoc: in Italian, Coteſto, Coteſta, Coſtuy, Coſtei, Queſto, Queſta: in French, Ceſtuy cy, Ceſte cy, Ceux: in Engliſh, this here, or this man heere. They doe differ thus,

Nota.

E'ſte, Aquéſte.

E'ſte and Aquéſte, in Latine, Hic, is he, or that which is neere or next to me.

E'ſte.

E'ſſe, in Latine, Iſte, he or that, neere or next to thee.

Aquél, El.

Aquél and El, in Latine, Ille, is he, or that which is neither by me nor thee, but a part from vs both.

Example.

	Abl. déſte,	déſta,	déſto.		Abl. déſtos,	déſtas.

In the ſingular number of this Pronoune, the firſt words in e, as éſte, déſte, para éſte, &c. are of the Maſculine gender: the ſecond, éſta, déſta, para éſta, &c. of the Feminine: the third, as éſto, déſto, &c. of the Neuter: but in the Plurall, the firſt is the Maſculine and Neuter: the other the Feminine gender.

Nota. In the Genitiue caſe, we ſay déſte, and déſtos, caſting away the firſt e, Euphoniæ gratia, that it might ſound the ſmoother, yet one may alſo ſay, de éſte, de éſtos.

Aquéſte. Aquéſte, Aquéſta, Aquéſto, declined as in the example next aboue, and ſo is E'ſſe. E'ſſe, E'ſſa, E'ſſo: in Latine, Iſte, Iſta, Iſtud: the Italians and French haue no proper words to expreſſe it, but muſt vſe circumlocution: in Engliſh, he or that, neere or next to thee.

Miſmo. Miſmo, Miſma, Miſmo, declined after the ſame.

Aquél, El.

Aquél, and El: in Latine, Ille, illa, illud: Italian, Quello, colui, quella, Colei: French, Celuy icelluy, Celle, icelle, he or that which is neither neere me nor thee, declined both alike.

Nota. Note that this El a Pronoune, and El the Article doe differ in declining, ſpecially in the plurall number. This making E'llos, and that Los, as by comparing the one with the other, the Reader may ſee. Looke the declining of the Article El, before in the Noune.

Nota. Note that the Spaniard commonly vſeth this Pronoune Le before a Verbe thus, Le víno a la memoria, it came to his memorie: Le díxo, he told him: Que del alma le ſalía, which came from his ſoule: Dar le lo, to giue him that: Le reſpondió, he anſwered him.

Nota. Alſo the Spaniard vſeth this Pronoune Le ioyned to the Infinitiue mode of a verbe, by changing r of the Infinitiue into l, Euphoniæ gratia, as Hablárle, to ſpeake vnto him, Hablálle: Oýrle, to heare him, Oylle: Vérle, to ſee him, Velle.

Now followeth Que, Quien, El Qual, in Latine Quis, Qui, Quæ, Quod, in Italian, Chi, Che, Il Quale, La Quale, in French, Qui, Lequel, Laquelle, in Engliſh, Who, which, thus.

Verbes.

Of Verbes.

Verbe paſſiue. The Spaniſh tongue hath the ſame kinde of Verbes, Moods, Tenſes, Numbers, and Perſons as the Latine. But for the verbe paſſiue, they make of the verbe Soy, in Latine, Sum, es, fui, and a participle, as Amádo, Leýdo, Partído, as Soi Amádo, Leýdo, Partído, I am loued, read, parted, or with this Accuſatiue caſe or particle Se, with the third perſon actiue ſingular or plurall, as Se dize, it is ſaid, Se dízen, they are ſaid, as hereafter in their place more at large ſhall be declared.

Gerunds. Alſo they haue the Gerund in Do in the ſame manner as the Latines, as Amándo, Leyéndo, Oyéndo, Oyéndo, in Louing, Reading, Hearing. But for the Gerund in Di and Dum of the Latine, they expresse after another manner. For Gerund in Di the Spaniard vseth the Infinitiue mode and the prepoſition De, as De amár, of Louing, De leer, of Reading. For the Gerund in Dum, the Infinitiue mode and the Prepoſition A, or the Infinitiue mode of Soy with a Participle, as A amár, or Ser amádo, to be Loued, A oyr or Ser oydo, to be Heard.

And in like manner their Supines, { Amatum, } they { A amár. } Supines.
whereas the Latines say, { Amatu, } say, { De ser amádo.

And for Participles of the Actiue voice, Amans, El que áma. Participles
For Participle of the Paſſiue voice, Amatus, Lo que es amádo.
For Participle of the Future in Rus, Amaturus, El que ha o eſpéra de amár.
For Participle of the Future in Dus, Amandus, Lo que ha de ser amádo.

All which by particular examples following shall plainly to the Reader appeare.

Of Coniugations.

The Spaniſh hath three coniugations onely both of Verbes Regular, and Irregular,

1 The first endeth in ar, as Mirár, to behold: Hablár, to speake.
2 The second in er, as Perdér, to loſe: Caér, to fall.
3 The third in yr or ir, as oyr, to heare: Cumplír, to accompliſh.

Tenſes.

The first Perſon ſingular of the Indicatiue mode Preſent tenſe of all Verbes Regular, of what Coniugation soeuer, alwaies endeth in o, Míro, I behold, Hablo, I speake, Piérdo, I loſe: Oygo, I heare.

Indicatiue Mood.

Euerie {
- Preterimperfect of the Indicatiue, of Verbes Regular, of the second and third Coniugation in ia, or ya, as Perdía, I did loſe: Cayá, I did fall, &c. Oyá, I did heare, Complía, I did accompliſh, &c. And of the first coniugation all in áva, as Miráva, I did behold: Habláva, I did speake.
- First Preterperfect in y, or i, as oy, perdi, I haue heard, I haue loſt: but of the first Coniugation all in é, as Miré, I haue beholden: Hablé, I haue spoken.
- Second Preterperfect of all the three Coniugations of al Verbs with this Verbe Hé, and the Participle, as Hé mirádo, I haue beholden: Hé leydo, I haue read: Hé oydo, I haue heard.
- Preterpluperfect thus, avía mirádo, leydo, oydo, I had beholden, read, heard.
- Future of the Indicatiue of all Verbes Regular,, and Irregular in ré, as Hablá-re, I will speake: Leyré, oyeré, haré, podré, sabré, Daré.

The Terminations of Verbs thus varied as followeth.

Euerie { Imperfect of the Indicatiue of the second and third Coniugation thus varied; } ía, ías, ía, íamos, iades, ían, } or { yá, yás, yá, yamos, yades, yán, } as { Perdía, Perdías, Perdía, Perdíamos, Perdíades, Perdían. } as { oyá, oyás, oyá, oyamos, oyades, oyan.

Euerie { Imperfect of the Indicatiue of the first Coniugation, in áva, ávas, áva: ávamos, ávades, ávan, as Habláva, hablávas, habláva, hablávamos, hablávades, hablávan.

Euerie { Future of the Indicatiue of all Verbes of all Coniugations. } { ré, rás, ra, rémos, reys, ran. } of first, second, and third. Coniugation in { ár, ér, ír, } { hablaré, perderé, oyré, } by adding é long or accent to the Infin. mode r.

		éran, rían, éllen,	perdiéran, perderían, perdiéllen.

And these Preterimperfect Tenses as all other of what Coniugation soeuer, of Verbes Regular, and Irregular, forme two voyces of themselues of the second person singular of the first Preterfect Tense of the Indicatiue mode, by taking away Ste, and by making it in the first Coniugation, ára, and álle, as of this second person of the Preterperfect of the Indicatiue singular, Reveláste,, commeth the Preterimperfect of the Optatiue, and Subiunctiue Revelára, Revelálle, and of the second and third Coniugation of all Verbes Regular and Irregular, by changing that ste, into éra and elle, as of this Indicatiue mood entendíste, commeth the Preterimperfect of the Optatiue and Subiunctiue, entendiéra, entendiélle, of oyste, commeth oyéra, oyélle: of díste, diéra, diélle: of estuvíste, estuviéra, estuviélle: of anduvíste, anduviéra, anduviélle: of pudíste, pudiéra, pudiélle. And they forme the third voyce of this Preterimperfect by putting to ia, to the Infinitiue mood, as of the Infinitiue revelar, commeth this Preterimperfect revelaría, of the Infinitiue entendér, entenderia, of oyr, oyría, of dár, daría: of estár, estaría, andár, andaría.

		éres,		Perdiéres,	Oyéres.
		ére,		Perdiére,	Oyére.
		éremos,		Perdiéremos,	Oyéremos.
		éredes,		Perdiéredes,	Oyéredes.
		éren.		Perdiéren.	Oyéren.

Now it remaineth to giue a Paradigma or example of euery Coniugation of their Moodes, Tenses, Numbers and Persons, that the Student in the tongue may forme the rest by, which is the cheefest point of this our Grammar, and without the which the learner shall neuer be able to write or speake but by aime and rote, and so be discouraged from so laudable a purpose.

And for the better delight of the Reader, and for the affinitie of these two tongues, as for the pleasure and profit he may reape hereby, I haue here in the Examples following, set downe the Italian, that the vnderstander of both tongues may with one labour (and yet at his ease) see the difference the one from the other, and be hereby able in vnderstanding, writing and speaking, to practise either of them, without vsing the one for the other, or mixing them (a thing offensiue to the Spaniards nature, as all know who haue trauelled in Spaine.) For euen as two things very like one to the other, if you see them at diuers times, and in diuers places, may easily make one miscarrie his memorie, and mistake the one for the other, when you see either of them againe by it selfe: so if you see them both at one time, and in one place together, and take good heed of them by comparing them, no doubt by one marke or other, you shall euer after be able to discerne, know and tell them: Euen so these two languages (sometime altogether so like) being thus laid together, will cause the Reader easily to discerne and remember them. Why the Italian added to the verbes following.

Avér and Sér.

And because this Verbe Avér, in Latine Habere, in Italian Hauere, in French Auoir, in English to Haue, and Sér, in Latine Esse, Italian Essere, French Estre, English to Be, doe serue to the conjugating or declining of all other Verbes: They are best in my opinion first to be declined, especially this Verbe Avér, which may fitly be called Verbum auxiliarium, a helpfull Verbe, because he doth not only helpe to decline himselfe in his owne preterperfect and preterpluperfect, but doth serue to decline all other Verbes whatsoeuer in the same tenses, as by the Examples following you may see. And this Verbe Sér, as before, serueth, as in the Italian and French to decline all Verbes Passiues, for without it neither the Spanish, Italian, or French, can forme or decline their Passiues, as following you may perceiue. Avér and Sér.

This

AVER declined.

This Imperatiue mode, Ten of Tengo, ſo commonly vſed for áyas, áya, is thus declined:

The Imperatiue of Tenér, ordinarily vſed for the Imperat. of AVER, to Haue.	Tén tu,	Hold thou.
	Ténga aquel,	let him Hold.
	Tengámus noſótros,	Hold we, or let vs Hold.
	Tenéd voſótros,	Hold ye.
	Téngan aquéllos,	Hold they, or let them Hold.

The Optatiue mode is vſed with theſe ſignes, Oxalá, or elſe Oſi, or Pluguiéſſe a Dios: in Latine, Vtinam: In Italian, O Dio voglia, O che, Dio voleſſe che, O Dio che: French, Dieu vuelle, Pleuſt a Dieu: Engliſh, would to God, I pray God, God grant. The Potentiall like the Latine, with theſe ſignes, May, Can, Might, Would, Should, or ought: both declined like the Subiunctiues following: but that the Optatiue and Potentiall alwayes make their Future tenſe and Preſent tenſe all alike, as Oxalá yo áya, I pray God I haue: ſo in the Future, Oxalá yo áya, I pray God I haue hereafter: Oxalá yo Revéle, God grant I reueale: Future tenſe alſo, Oxalá yo Revéle, God grant I reueale hereafter: and ſo of the reſt. Nota.

And becauſe the Optatiue and Potentiall haue their Future tenſes all one with their Preſent: and the Subiunctiue hath two Futures, and both differing from the Preſent, I hold it needfull to decline the Subiunctiue, by whom the other two are framed.

All verbes whoſe Infinitiues end in ir, or yr, are declined in euery reſpect like this: except thoſe in ir and yr, in the Irregulars following.

Of Verbes Paſſiues.

The Spaniards, as the Italian and French, decline their Verbes paſſiues with their Verbe Sum, es, fui, and the Participle of the Preter tenſe, as of Reuelár, to reueale: Soy reueládo, I am reueaſed.

The Spaniſh formeth the Participle Paſſiue of the firſt and third Conjugation of their Infinitiue mood, by taking away r, and putting to do, as of Reuelár, Reueládo, Pedír, to require, Pedido, required, Oyr, to heare, Oydo, heard.

But in the ſecond Conjugation they take away r as before, and change the laſt e into y or i, and adde to do as afore ſaid, as Leer, to read, Leydo: Entendér, to vnderſtand, Entendido.

A Verbe Paſſiue thus declined.

After this manner in euery respect all other verbes Passiues, Regular or Irregular of what Coniugation soeuer, are to be declined as of the second Coniugation, Soy Vendido, Posseydo, Defendido, and of the third Coniugation, as Soy Oydo, Corregido, Seguido, and so of the rest.

Note that this accusatiue case Se of the Pronoune ioyned with the third Person of verbes Actiues, make them haue the Passiue signification, as Dize, he saith, Se dize, it is said. Nota.

Now will I handle and intreat of the verbes Irregular (in which is found hardnes and difficultie to the learner for their declining) in such order and manner that he may with his ease or very little paine decline any of them whatsoeuer: for which purpose and for whose ease and profit, I haue to my great labour brought them into the forme as followeth, and haue so diligently searched, that no one of them necessarie to his vse (as I hope) shall be wanting, not here following set downe, that my labours may be answerable to my desire, and the learners profit to my paines.

Perecér, to perish,	yo peréſco,	Perecý.

Except.

Vencér, to ouercome,	yo venço,	Vencí.

In all other Moods and Tenses they are declined like the Verbes Regular of the second Conjugation in ER.

These in ger, make their Present of the Indicatiue, by changing g into j, which the Spaniards in speaking doe much vse, setting downe the one for the other, as well in Nounes as in Verbes, as in Nounes Mageſtád, Majeſtád: Menſaje, Menſage, and the like.

Infinitiues.	Pres.	Preter.
Encogér, to withdraw,	yo encójo,	Encogí.
Recogér, to gather vp or retire	yo recójo,	Recogí.
Acogér, to entertaine,	yo acójo,	Acogý.
Eſcogér, to chuſe out,	yo eſcójo,	Eſcogý.
Cogér, to gather,	yo cójo,	Cogý.
Vngír, to annoint,	yo úngo,	Vngí.

In other Moods and Tenses like the Regulars.

These make their Present tense of the Indicatiue, by adding i in the last syllable saue one of the Infinitiue, as

Infinitiues.	Pres.	Preter.
Defender, to defend,	yo defiéndo,	Defendí
Dehendér, to cleane asunder.	yo dehiéndo,	Dehendí.

And these make the Present tense by turning o in the last syllable saue one of the Infinitiue into ue, as

Infinitiues.	Pres.	Preter.
Bolvér, to turne,	yo buélvo,	Bolví.
Rebolvér, to returne,	yo rebuélvo,	Rebolví.
Solér, to be wont,	yo ſuélo,	Solí.
Coſér, to sow,	yo cuéſo,	Coſý.
Cozér. to seethe,	yo cuézo,	Cozí.
Dolér, to be sorie, to grieue,	yo duélo,	Dolí.

And these following thus,

Caér, to fall,	yo cáygo,	Cayý.
Roér, to gnaw,	yo róygo,	Royý.
Valér, to be worth,	yo válgo,	Valí.
Traér, to fetch or bring,	yo tráygo,	Trúxe.
Oýr, to heare,	yo óygo,	Oý.

In other Moods and Tenses like the Regular Verbes.

In like manner thorow all Moods and Tenses are his Compounds declined, as Retraér, to withdraw, yo Retráygo, I doe withdraw, Retrúxe, I haue withdrawne, &c.

Of Verbes Impersonals.

The Spanish as the French and Italian Impersonals are of the manner of the Latines, which want the first and second person, and are declined onely in the third person throwout all Moods and Tenses, as,

Indicatiue mood.

Present.	Ay,		There is.
Imperfect.	Avía,		There was.
1 Perfect.	úvo,		There was.
2 Perfect.	á,	Avído,	There hath beene.
Pluperfect.	avía,		There had beene.
Future.	Avrá,		There shall be, &c.
Imperat.	A'ya,		Let there be.

Subiunctiue mood.

Present.	Aya,	When there is.
Imperfect.	uviéra, avría, uviésse,	When there was.
Perfect.	aya Avído,	When there hath beene.
Pluperfect.	uviéra or uviésse Avído,	When there had beene.
Future.	uviére or Avra Avído,	When there shall be.

Note that the Spaniard almost continually vseth this Impersonall Ay as the French their Il y ya, in English There is, as by obseruing you shall most vsually finde, as also this third person Comple thus declined, of Complir the Infinitiue.

Indicatiue mood.

Present.	Cómple,	Decet, Oportet,	It beseemeth or behoueth.
Imperfect.	Complía,	Decebat, Oportebat,	It did beseeme.
1 Perfect.	Complió,	Decuit, Oportuit,	It hath beseemed, &c.
2 Perfect.	a Complído,	Decuit, Oportuit,
Pluperfect.	Avía Complido,	Decuerat, Oportuerat.
Future.	Complirá,	Decebit, Oportebit.

And so throwout the third person of the rest.

Indicatiue mood.

Present.	E's,	There is.
Imperfect.	éra,	There was.
1 Perfect.	fue,	There hath beene.
2 Perfect.	avía Sído,	There hath beene.
Pluperf.	avía Sido,	There had beene.
Future.	Será,	There shall be, &c.

And so decline forward, as in the Subiunctiue mood of the verbe Ser, Soy afore going in the third person onely.

Indicatiue mood.

Present.	Es menestér,	Oportet,	It behoueth.
Imperf.	era menestér,	Oportebat,	It did behoue.
1 Perfect.	fue menestér,	Oportuit,	It hath behoued.
2 Perfect.	a fido menestér,	Oportuit,	It hath behoued.
Pluperf.	avia fido menestér,	Oportuerat,	It had behoued.
Future.	avra menestér,	Oportebit,	It will behoue.

And so throwout the rest, &c.

This verbe Impersonall Plazér declined.

Indicatiue mood.

Present.	Pláze,	It pleaseth.
Imperf.	Plazía,	It did please.
1 Perfect.	Plúgo,	It hath pleased.
2 Perfect.	a Plazido,	It hath pleased.
Pluperf.	avía Plazido,	It had pleased.
Future.	Plazerá,	It will please.
Imper.	Pléga,	Let it please.

© Biblioteca Nacional de España

Subiunctiue mood.

Present.	Pléga,	When it doth pleaſe.
Imperf.	Pluguiéra, Pluguiéſſe,	When it did pleaſe.
Perfect.	áya Plazído,	When it hath pleaſed.
Pluperf.	uviéra Plazído,	When it had pleaſed.
Future.	Pluguiére,	When it will pleaſe.

To forme an Impersonall of the Passiue voice, you must take this particle Se, and the third person of any verbe thus: which particle so added, makes a verbe Impersonall Passiue, as,

Present.	Se Dize,	Si dice or diceſi,	Dicitur,	It is said or spoken,
Imperf.	Se Dezía,	Si dicéna or dicénaſi, &c.	Dicebatur, &c.	It was said or spoken,
1 Perfect.	Se Díxo,			&c.
2 Perfect.	Se a Dicho,
Pluperf.	S'avía Dicho,
Future.	Se Dirá.

Of Participles.

Participle of the Present tense.

IN Spanish, Participles of the Present tense and active signification, are made of the third person Present tense of the Indicative mood of the same Verbe, putting before it the Relative, El que, as El que Revéla, revealing, Latine Reuelans: El que Entiénde, vnderstanding, in Latine Intelligens: El que oye, hearing, in Latine Audiens.

Participle of the Preter tense.

Participles of the Preter tense, and passiue signification end in ádo, ído, or ydo, which in the first coniugation are formed of the third person of the Present tense of the Indicatiue mood, by adding to do, as Revela, reveládo: Ama, amádo: Castiga, castigado: and in the second and third coniugation of the same Present tense, by changing e, into ído, and ydo, as Entiende, entendido: Lée, Leýdo: Crée, creýdo: Píde, pedído.

But for the Irregular (according to the nature of the word) without rule, as Factus, fecho, made: Dictus, Dícho, said, spoken.

Participle of the Future tense.

The Future tense with this Verbe Ha, or Espéra, and the Infinitiue of the Verbe, as El que ha, or Espera de revelár, Entendér, or oyr: Reuelaturus, Intellecturus, Auditurus, about to reueale, about to vnderstand, about to heare.

Present.

Participle of the Present tense, and active signification.

El que revéla, entiénde, óye, Latine, Reuelans, Intelligens, Audiens, Reuealing, vnderstanding, hearing.

Preter.

Participle of the Preter tense and passiue signification.

Reveládo, Entendído, oýdo, Latine Reuelatus, Intellectus, Auditus, Reuealed, vnderstood, heard.

Future.

Participle of the Future tense.

El que ha or espéra de Revelár, Entendér, oýr, Latine Reuelaturus, Intellecturus, Auditurus, to reueale hereafter, to vnderstand hereafter, to heare hereafter.

Of Aduerbs.

Aduerbs formed of Nounes of the Feminine gender in a. Nota.

I Haue handled before the foure parts of speech declined. Now come we to the other foure vndeclined, called Indeclinable, beginning first with the Aduerbs, whereof some in the Spanish tongue are formed of Nownes of the Feminine gender in a, as are almost all the Aduerbs of Qualitie, as Alta, high; Altaménte, highly; Gracioſa, graciosaménte, graciously; Luenga, luengaménte; in Latine Diu, long: which manner of forming the Italian likewise obserueth, as Gratioſamente, Longamente, Sauiamente, so doth the French, making the word to end in Ment, as Gratieuſment, Longuement, Saggement. Wherefore I think good to set downe the Aduerbs following and the rest: first, the Spanish, then Italian, after French, next Latine, and last English: euery one separated one from another with this crooked line thus,] Aduerbs some be

A Prepoſition.

Prepoſition. The Spaniſh hath the ſame vſe of Prepoſitions as the Latines haue, ſometimes by compoſition with another word, as Bolvér, to turne; Rebolvér, to ouer-turne: Hazér, to doe, Rehazér, to renew, &c. Sometime by appoſition (as the Latines doe) by putting the Prepoſition before the Noune, as Ala corte, to the Court: Por el Rey, for the King: En la yglẽſia, in the Church.

Nota. Note that this Prepoſition De, or Des, alwaies makes the word that it is ioyned with, of a quite contrary ſignification, as Hazér, to doe: Deſhazér, to vndoe: Atár, to tie or binde: Deſatar, to vntie: Canſado, wearie: Deſcanſado, reſting: Dicha, happineſſe: Deſdicha, vnhappineſſe, miſfortune: And ſo in the French, Faire, to doe: Desfaire, to vndoe: Lier, to binde, Deslier, to vnbinde, &c. Prepoſitions of the Spaniſh thus,

Of Syntaxis.

Definition of Syntaxis. Syntaxis is a due coupling together of Speech, according to the right Rules of Grammar, which the beſt Authors, both Ancient and Moderne, haue ſtill vſed in writing and ſpeaking.

Syntaxis, of the Greeke word συν, which is Con, and τάσσω, ordino, quaſi coordinatio, which is conſtruction or agreement.

But for that the Spaniſh (as the Italian and French) being deriued from the Latine (as before ſaid, and ſtill keepeth as great affinitie as Siluer and Tin, both proceeding (as Alchimiſts ſay) from Quickſiluer, or as no one can gainſay from the mother earth, or as a different Plant grafted on a ſtrange ſtock or tree: It muſt neceſſarily be ordered by many Rules of the Latine, which here to repeat were loſt labour and in vaine, as hath ſeemed to the moſt part of all thoſe learned, that of any theſe vulgar languages haue written: Finiſhing their Grammars at the end of the eight parts of ſpæch, and leauing this quite out: which order I haue obſerued, referring the Latine Reader to the Rules of the Latine Syntaxis for this part of Grammar, and other to due obſeruation in reading good Authors: wiſhing increaſe to both, to their owne contents, and my ſelfe hereby to haue furthered both, to mine owne chiefe deſire.

Al mui illustre Señor, Don Eduardo Hobby: su aficionado servidor Juan Minsheu desse a salúd, y perpetua felicidád.

Vy illustre Señor, de aquel famoso pintor Apeles se quenta, que aviendo acabado de pintár vna hermosa tabla, teniendola colgada en parte pública; inumerable gente de todas suertes combidáda de la lindeza della, suspendiéron su curso, y se detuviéron a contemplár-la, entre los de mas, se acertó a llegár vn rústico labradór, y como todos alabássen grandemente el ingénio del artífice, iuntamente con la pintura: el villáno, con boz ronca y mal compuesta, díxo, vna gran falta tiene ésta tabla; lo qual como oyesse Apeles, le preguntó qual fuesse ésta? El respondió, aquella espíga sobre la qual está aquel páxaro sentádo, deviera estár mas inclinada, porque conforme al peso que presuppone el páxaro y la flaquéza de la caña, no podía sustentár le sin doblárse mas, oydo ésto por el pintór, vió que tenía razón el villáno; y tomando el pinçél, emendó luego aquella falta, siguiendo su parecér; sobérbio pues el rústico con ver que se uviésse tomado su voto, passó mas adelante, y díxo, aquellos çapatos que aquella figura tiene no están buennos, a ésto le respondió Apeles, Hermano cura de tu arte, y dexa a cada vno el suyo. Está figura, muy ilustre señor, he querído traér, por dezír, que si todos los hombres se conformássen con lo que sáuen y que su ingénio alcança, no quisiéssen passár adelante, a sabér lo que no es de su professión ny les toca, ny ellos quedarían corridos, como éste villáno, ni el labradór se entremeterría a tratár de la guerra, ny el mercadér de la cavallaría, ny el oficiál de las sciéncias, ny el herréro se pondría a disputár puntos de teología; Sino que tratando cada vno aquello a que su capacidád se estiende, y no mas, sería vn concierto maravillóso, que resultaría en grande utilidád de toda la república, y para ésto devríamos tomar exemplo en las cosas naturales, las quales perpetuamente guárdan su órden y conciérto, sin entremeterse las vnas a hazér el ofício de las otras, y anssi vémos que ny la tierra calién ta, ny el fuego produze, ny el viento riéga, ny el agua ventéa, sino que cada cosa tiene su calidád, y ofício particulár. Pues aviéndose de guardár éste conciérto y órden, a v. m. conviene y toca el jusgár de ésta mi obra, como aquel que entre todos los demas, tiene el primado de la lengua Española, segun la facilidád con que se le a dádo, y la perfecion con que la habla, pero tambien en otras muchas sciencias, y facultádes, en que v. m. resplandéce sobre todos los de nuéstro tiempo. Aqui no es de oluidár la resplgente, rara y acabada perfecion en hermosura, doctrina, lenguas, de la muy ilustre Señora Doña Margarita su muger de v. m. Dios sabe, si yo quisiera dedicár le toda la obra entera y no partida en parte, (pues quando no uviéra las razones díchas para haźérlo; baſtava el agradecimiento y beneuolẽcia, que v. m. moſtró al que primero imprendió lo que he yo ampliado, y hecho mas copioſo: Peró el lo dexádo de hazer, por los razones a my júyzio; la una es la obligación preciſa que tengo a las perſonas a quien va dirigida, no ſolo de obediencia y amiſtád, ſino tambien de ayuda, favór, y ſocorro, que me han dado, para podér llegarla a ſu fin; y la otra razón es, a verſe començado, proſeguido, y acabado en ſu nombre, y para que ſe apovéchan della, en ſu miniſtério. Peró ya que lo que es mayór en cantidád tengo empleado, lo que es ygual en calidád, o freſco y dedico a. v. m. y éſto mas por lo que a mi importa, pues quedaré ſeguro que los detractores no oſen mordér en lo que ha ſido cenſurádo por tan primo júyzio y entendimiento, que no por la glória o vtilidád que dello ſe podra ſeguir a v. m. ultra de que con eſto ſatisfaga en parte la deuda de agradecimiento, que dèvo a quien con tanta voluntád favorece a mi profeßion, ofício verdaderamente próprio de hombres ſábios y diſcrétos, anſi como es de ygnorantes y poco menos que béſtias, el impedír ſemejántes exercicios lo qual no cabe ſino en hombres grueſſos de entendimiento, y de conciẽcias, Suplico a. v. m. ſe ſerva de recebír eſſo pequeño ſeruício, aunque con grande voluntád ofrecido, y ponér lo debaxo de ſu protectión y ampáro, pues con eſto, la obra quedarà ſegura, y yo tambien lo eſtaré, de que eſtá bien empleada: y tomaré álas para emprendér mayóres cóſas en nombre de v. m. Cuya muy ilußre perſona, nueſtro ſeñor guarde con acrecentamiento de mayóres eſtados.

Béſa las manos de v. m. ſu ſervidór,

A. Señór.
d.P. Que óra es?
A. Las cinco ſon dádas.
d.P. Levántate y abre aquella ventána a vér ſi es de dia.
A. Aun no es bien amenecído.
d.P. Pues aſno, como dixíſte que ha dado las çinco?
A. Señór las çinco yo las conté, peró el relóx y la mañána no ándan a úna.
d.P. O tu miéntes o el relóx miénte, que el ſol no puede mentír.
A. Mas vale que miénto yo, que no el año.
d.P. Que día haze?
A. Señór nubládo.
d.P. En los ójos déves tu de tenér las núbes que el cielo yo le véo cláro.
A. Pues no eſtóy çiégo.
d.P. Antes créo que eſtas durmiéndo toda vía.
A. Sé, que no ſoy elefante que tengo de dormírme en pie.
d.P. Haze frío?
A. Vn cerceganíllo éntra por la ventána que córta las narízes.

d.P. Dáme de veſtír que me quiéro levantár.

The firſt Dialogue of riſing in the *morning, and of thoſe things thereunto ap-*pertaining: betweene a Gentleman named M. Peter, and his ſeruant Alonſo, and another friend of his called M. Iohn, and a Nurſe of the houſe.

P. YOuth, doeſt thou heare?
A. Sir.
P. What is it of the clocke?
A. It hath ſtrucken fiue.
P. Riſe, and open that window, to ſee if it be day.
A. It is not yet breake of the day.
P. Why then aſſehead, why ſaidſt thou that it had ſtrucke fiue a clocke?
A. Sir, I told you fiue, but the clocke and the morning goe not together.

P. Either thou lieſt, or the clocke lieth, for the Sunne cannot lie.
A. It is better that I lie, then the yeare proue out ill.
P. What weather is it?
A. Sir cloudie weather.
P Belike thine eies be cloudie, for I ſee the skie cleere.

A. Yet am I not blinde.
P. Rather I beleeue thou ſtandeſt ſleepeing.
A. I know I am not an Elephant to ſleepe ſtanding.
P. Is it cold weather?
A. Here comes in ſuch a cold Northerly wind at the window, that it bites off my noſe.
P. Giue me my clothes; for I will riſe.

A. What to doe ſo early?
P. To goe about buſineſſe, for I haue much to doe to day.
A. No body will be yet ſtirring.
P. Thou doeſt propheſie for thine owne behoofe.
A. What apparell will you weare to day Sir?
P. That of the fine blacke cloth, for it is of eſtimation and profitable.
A. What doublet?
P. That of ſtitched Satten.
A. Here it is.
P. Blocke head, doeſt thou bring me my doublet d.P. Dáme las cálças de terciopélo acuchilládas.

A. Aqui eſtán ſeñór.

d.P. Eſtán limpias? mira bien ſi tiénen álgun púnto ſuelto las médias.

A. Eſſa es vna de las tres coſas que Ganáſa dezía, que el hombre buſca con gran cuydádo, y quando las ha halládo le péſa.

d.P. Y quales ſon las de mas?

A. Vna ſuziedád en la cáma, y los cuérnos, ſi ſu mugér ſe los póne, peró éſtas ſánas eſtán.

d.P. Cálçamelas, dáme el ſáyo de velárte, quel de ráxa es muy delgádo para éſte frío que háze.

A. Quiére, v. m. ponérſe borzeguíes?

d.P. No ſino çapátos y pantúflos, por amór del lódo: Dáme priméro aguamános.

A. Señór el água eſtá eláda en el járro.

d.P. Buéna ſeñál. A. De que ſeñór? d.P. de Caránbanos.

A. Y aun de que háze frío.

d.P. Derrítelo en el braſéro, dáme entre tánto el eſpéjo y v'nas tixéras que quiéro adereçárme la bárva.

A. Aquí eſtá el eſtúche donde eſtá tódo, y tambien el péyne.

d.P. O que de cánas téngo, ya me voy parándo *doublet before my ſhirt, wilt thou ſcoffe me as though I had beene whipped?

A. The Laundreſſe hath not yet brought home the ſhirts.

P. Whoorſonne knaue, goe then for them.

A. Lupus eſt in fabula, as ſoone as one names him, preſently he appeares, here comes the Laundreſſe.

P. Is it dry?

A. As dry as a horne.

P. Haue I not told thee, that thou bring me no ſuch compariſons?

A. That is true, if ye were a perſon ſuſpected, for a man ought not to make mention of a halter in the houſe of a man that was hanged.

P. Giue me my paned vcluet hoſe.

A. Here they are Sir.

P. Be they made cleane? Looke well if the ſtockings haue any ſtitches broken in them.

A. This is one of the three things which Ganaſa ſaid, a man ſeekes diligently after, and when hee hath found them it grieues him.

P. And what are the other two?

A. Filth in the bed one lieth in, and hornes if they be of his owne wiues graſting, but theſe ſtockings are whole.

P. Pull them on, giue me that Ierkin of blacke cloth, for that of thin cloth raſh, is very thin for this cold weather.

A. Will you weare buskins?

P. No, but pumps and pantofles, becauſe of the durt: Giue me firſt water to waſh my hands.

A. Sir, the water is frozen in the pot.

P. A good ſigne. A. Of what Sir? P. Of Ice.

A. And alſo that it is cold.

P. Thaw it in the pan of coales, in the meane while giue me the looking glaſſe and ſciſſers, for I will trim my beard.

A. This water is now well, you may now well waſh Sir.

P. Then giue here the baſon and yewer, and the towell.

A. Will you weare a ſhort cloake and cap, or long cloake and hat?

P. It is no weather now for a cap, giue me a long cloake and a felt hat.

A. What rapier, gilt, ſilvered, or ſanguined?

P. None, but that varniſht rapier, leſt it ſhould raine: Go looke who knockes at the doore.

A. It is maſter Iohn.

P. Run, open the doore quickly.

I. God giue you good morrow maſter Peter.

P. Oh maſter Iohn, you are as well welcome as good fortune: how doe you Sir?

I. Readie to doe you ſeruice, and are you well Sir?

P. Howſoeuer Sir, at your commaund, although now I am not halfe well.

I. Why then doe you riſe ſo early, if you be not well?

P. Becauſe Phyſitians ſay, that for ones health it is good to riſe early in the morning.

I. That health let them haue themſelues for me, theſe be the good daies (as the Prouerbe ſaith) which wee ought to lock vp within our doores, nay (I ſhould ſay) within our beds.

P. To tell you the truth, I doe it chiefly to follow my buſineſſe.

I. How goeth it with you in your buſineſſe?

P. Sir at your commaund, but ill enough God be thanked.

I. How, doe they not diſpatch you?

P. Yea Sir, they deſpite me. Boy, giue vs ſomewhat to breakefaſt before wee goe forth.

P. Boy giue vs drinke, for the Pepper bites.

A. Which will you haue Sir, Sack or * Tinto?

P. Fill out of the Sacke, for it is more heating, chiefly for the morning.

I. And alſo is more wholeſome than the red.

P. I drinke to you maſter Iohn.

I. I thanke you Sir, I will pledge you.

A. In which cup will your worſhip drinke, in the plaine bowle, or in the little deepe one.

I. Friend Alonſo you muſt know, that I am a very good drinker, and know how much I vſe to drinke, wherefore fill me that plaine bowle.

P. I like better to drinke out of this drinking Glaſſe, than out of any other of the cups.

I. Sir, againſt ones liking there is no diſputing.

P. It is ſo Sir: this legge of Kid will make you once againe haue a quarrell to the cup. Bring vs ſome Oliues for the third courſe.

I. This is to be called a dinner, and not a breakefaſt.

P. Why?

I. Becauſe to a good meale or a bad, three draughts onely are to be had.

P. Alas faith our mother Celeſtine, the letter is corrupted, for whereas he ſhould haue ſaid thirteene, he ſet downe three.

I. Well Sir, it ſufficeth, we haue eaten well, no more, for we ſhall looſe our ſtomacks to eat at dinner.

P. Let them giue to each of vs once againe of the * Calabriáda.

I. Whither ſhall we goe?

P. Firſt to the Church, to commend our ſelues to God.

I. It is very good, for neither in going to the Church, nor in giuing prouender to thy horſe, was there euer iourney hindred or loſt.

Me. Then let her require what, and all ſhall be giuen her very good cheape.

Ma. Mueſtre me acá algunos tocádos, guirnaldíllas, rapóſos, randas, deſhilados, rocas de todas ſuertes, y tan bien venga la olanda delgada, cambray, y otras ſuertes de liéncos.

Ma. Shew me ſome womens head attire, garland head attire, wires of ſiluer, bone worke or bone lace, ſtitched worke, head attire of all ſorts, and alſo bring fine holland, cambricke, and other ſorts of linnen.

Me. Entre v. m. que todo lo verá aquí.

Me. May it pleaſe your worſhip come in, for you ſhall ſee all here.

Ma. Todo eſto es obra toſco mas * prima la quiéro.

Ma. All this is groſſe worke, I would ſee more principall.

* Prima, i. chiefe, principall or a ſhee coſen german.

Th. Para prima Señora no es buena la hija de vueſtro tío?

Th. Will not your Vncles daughter ſerue you for a coſen?

Ma. Es muy gorda aquella, y por eſſo quería otra mas delgáda.

Ma. This is very courſe, and therefore would I haue other finer.

Me. Pues en eſta caxa verá. v. m. el primór del mundo, todo es obra de Milán.

Me. Then in this cheſt ſhall your worſhip ſee the principalleſt that is, all is worke of Milan.

Th. Obra de Milán veeme y no me tangas.

*Th. Worke of Milan * ſee me but touch me not.*

* Becauſe they are toies, if you touch them they breake in peeces.

Ma. Nada de eſto me conténta.

Ma. None of theſe pleaſeth me.

Me. Eſpanto me como ſe caſó v. m. ſiendo tan mal contentadíza.

Me. I wonder how your worſhip married being ſo diuers to pleaſe your fancy.

Th. Fue por que vído a el nóbio de noche, y como dizen entonçes todos los garos ſon párdos.

Th. It was becauſe ſhe ſaw the bridegroome by night, and as they ſay, then all cats are grey eied.

Ma. Mueſtre me otra mejór obra ſi tiene, y dexeſe de preguntár quantos años tengo.

Ma. Shew me ſome better worke, if you haue any, and leaue of to aske how old I am.

Me. Aora éſta es la última pruéva, ve aquí v. m. óbra de argentería ve allí de aljófar, eſtótra de abalório, y éſta de pérlas, eſcoja como peras en tabáque.

Me. Now is the laſt triall, ſee heere worke of ſiluer, there of ſmall pearle, this other of blacke Bugles, and this of pearle, chooſe out as peares in a basket.

Ma. Por cierto en ruin háto, poco ay que eſcojér.

Ma. Verily in a bad flocke, this is but a ſmall choiſe.

Me. A eſto llama v.m. ruín, réo que es de peór condición que el philóſopho Demócrito, que no halló coſa en el mundo que no tubiéſſe fálta.

Me. Call you this bad, I beleeue that you are of a worſe condition then the Philoſopher Democritus, which found nothing in the world, which had not a fault.

Th. Eſſo ſin Demócrito lo dígo yo, que no ay coſa perfecta en el mundo.

Th. I ſay this without Democritus, that there is nothing perfect in the world.

Me. Eſſo verificárſe ha, en coſas naturales, que en las de el arte puede avér perfeçión cada vna en ſu género.

Me. This is to be verified in natural things, for in thoſe things of Art, there may be perfection, euery thing in his kinde.

Th. Pues que penſáis vos que es el arte, ſino ymitadór de la natura, y ſi en la natura no ay perfeçión menos la avrá en el arte ſu imitadór.

Th. Why what thinke you that art is any thing elſe but a follower of nature, and if nature hath not her perfection, much leſſe ſhall there be any in her follower.

Me. Yo ſeñor no ſoy philóſopho, ni quiero contendér con v. m. mis mercaderías querría que tubiéſſen ſu perfeçión en el préçio.

Me. Sir I am not a Philoſopher, neither wil I contend with your worſhip, I would my merchandizes had their perfection in the price.

Ma. Si no le tiénen en ſu valór, no le puéden tenér en el préçio.

Ma. If they haue not in their worth, they cannot haue it in their price.

Me. Aora ſeñora véa v.m. lo que mas le conténta, y tome lo que no tengo otra coſa mejór.

Me. Now Ladie, ſee that which beſt likes you, and take it, for I haue no better.

Ma. Eſte tocádo, eſte cuéllo, éſta gargantílla de perlas, eſte regalillo, y eſte avanillo, eſta dos pares deguentes de flores, y eſta pretína, me paréçen bien, todo lo de mas no.

Ma. This kerchiefe, this band, this neckelace of pearle, this muffe, and * this fanne, theſe two paire of gloues perfumed, and this girdle likes me, all the reſt I care not for.

* But not of feathers, for they vſe no feather fans in Spaine.

Th. Quanto monta todo eſſo?

Th. How much comes all this to?

Me. Todo monta tres çientos reáles.

Me. All comes to * three hundred rials, or ſixpences.

* i. Seauen pound ten ſhillings.

Th. Tres çientos áños eſté de vn lado quien tal diére.

Th. Let him lie three hundred yeares on one ſide that ſhould giue ſo much.

Me. Pues por que no le alcançe a v. m. éſſa maldición dos çientos, y ochénta.

Me. Then becauſe this curſe may not light vpon you, giue two hundred and fourefcore.

Th. No entiendo bien eſſa cuenta.

Th. I vnderſtand not well this reckoning.

Me. * Dos vèzes ciento y quarenta.

* Dos vezes, ſe refiére a ciento y tambien al quarenta.

Me. Twiſe a hundred, and twiſe fortie.

Ma. Buena eſtá la copla, no han de ſér mas que dos çiéntos y cinquenta en todo.

Ma. This copla is well, it ſhould be no more then two hundred and fiftie in all.

Me. Con v. m. el perdér es ganár, pues manda que ſe a anſi, yo no hablaré mas palábra.

Me. With your worſhip to loſe is gaine, ſeeing you command ſo, I will not ſpeake a word more.

Th. Para que quiere hablár mas, ſi con las habládas ha hecho ſu agóſto.

Th. Why would you ſpeake any more, if with that which is ſpoken you haue made your harueſt.

Th. Señór si hiziéra buena sementéra cogiera mas.

Me. Aun tengo aquí otras muchas mercaderías muy curiosas que v. m. no haviſto.

Ma. Que son?

Me. Sartíllas, joyéles, cintas de resplandór, brocadétes, rodétes cofias de oro, arandélas, alcacuéllos, gorguéras de réd, camísas labradas, gargantillas de pérlas, y ámbar, todo género de aféite y de perfúmes, véa v. m. si le contenta algo.

Ma. Otro dia vernémos mas de espácio para ver todo esso.

Th. Pareçeme señór que es vuestro ofício, como el de los torneros engaña muchachos y saca dineros.

Me. Pues es mi Señóra Margaríta muchácho?

Th. Basta que sea engañáda.

Me. A fee que no ha de savér poco quien la ha de engañár.

Th. Engañárse ha ella mesma a sí misma.

Me. Como?

Th. Dando dinéros por estas bugerías que relúzen y no es óro todo, y quando váya a casa, se hallará con no nada entre dos plátos.

Me. Para que es el dinero si no para luzírse con ello.

Th. Se que esto aunque relúze no lúze.

Ma. Ya os he dicho Señór, que os vais al corriénte de la de mas génte, y pues os casástes como los ótros pássa por donde los ótros, no andeis por los estrémos que todo hombre estremádo no está vn de do de loco, éstas son cargas de el casamiénto.

ten but a little fruit.

Th. If you had made your seed time better, you had reaped more.

Me. Yet haue I many other merchandizes very fine, that your worship hath not seene yet.

Ma. What are they?

Me. Chaines of leat, Amber, or such like, tablet Iewels, girdles faire to see to, cloth of Gold the worser sort, head rolles, coifes of Gold, supporters, gorgets of net-worke, wrought shirts or smockes, necke laces of Pearles and Amber, all kinde of painting, and perfumes, see if you like any.

Ma. We will come another day, more at leasure to see all this.

*Th. It seemes to me Sir, that your trade is as that of the * Turners, which deceiues Boyes and gets money.*

* i. Make tops for children.

Me. Why is my Lady Margaret a Boy?

Th. It sufficeth that she be deceiued.

Me. In faith, he is not to know a little that must deceiue her.

Th. She her selfe will deceiue her selfe.

Me. How?

Th. In giuing money for these childish toies, which shine and yet are not all gold, and when she goes home, it will bee found nothing betweene two platters.

Me. Why is money made, but to make shew therewith?

Th. I know that this, although it glitter double, it shines not.

Ma. I haue already told you Sir, that you goe the common course of the most, and seeing you haue married as other men haue, passe that way as other men doe, goe not by extremities, for euery man that is in his extremities, is not a fingers breadth from a foole, these be the charges of mariage.

* The Nature of the Beetle in the Cow-turd when another comes to help him, leaues all: so in mariage, when another comes to helpe to maintaine his wife, he forsakes her.

*Th. The helpe of mariage * like the helpe of the Beetle vnder the cow-turd, which forsakes the burden as soone as they helpe him.*

G. Doſt thou know maſter Rodrick his houſe?
P. Yea Sir.
G. Then go thither and tell him that I commend me to him, and if hee thinke good now, that we may meet together.
P. Here is a ſeruant of Sir Lorenço.

G. Let him come in.
S. Sir Lorenço my maſter commends him vnto your worſhip, and ſends me to know whether you be at home, for hee hath a buſineſſe to entreat of with you.
G. I thanke him, and I would haue come vnto his houſe to haue ſaluted him, if I had not tarried heere about a buſineſſe of importance, the which alſo concernes him, if hee come he ſhall be welcome, and wee will talke at large.
S. I take my leaue of your worſhip.
G. God be with you. Hoe tell the Gentleman-vſher that he make the tables to be couered, for the gueſts will come by and by.
V. Sir, will your Worſhip haue your ſeruice to day, after the Italian, after the French, after the Engliſh, after the Flemiſh, or after the Dutch manner?
G. Of all theſe extremes take me out one meane, I will not haue ſo many ceremonies as the Italian, neither will I ſo much curioſitie as the French, neither ſuch abundandance as the Engliſh, neither will I that the meale be ſo long as the Flemmings, nor ſo moiſt as the

G. Euery one faſten on his Partridge, and order him as beſt ſhall ſeeme good vnto him, there are Limons and Orenges, Pepper, and all things elſe.

R. A Partridge, as Phiſitions ſay, is to be eaten betweene three companions, that he may doe no harme.

L. They ſay true, that is, betweene a man, a cat, and a dog.

O. You haue not marked the varietie of the roaſt, which heere they haue brought vs.

R. What is vnder thoſe greene boughes?

G. The head of a wilde Boare.

R. Then it is the buſh of a Tauerne.

L. Rather the contrary, for the Tauerne buſh inuites thoſe that loue drinke to the wine, and theſe boughes inuites or drawes vnto it Wine it ſelfe; euen as the loadſtone draweth to it ſteele.

O. A maſter Mendoza, part this roaſt leg of mutton with your friends.

M. Sir, mine dyed ſuddenly.

R. It ſeemes you haue anſwered with a ſpeech quite beſide the purpoſe.

O. Although it ſeeme, it is not ſo, for maſter Mendoza hath ſpoken it for his aduantage.

R. But if he doe not expound it, we ſhall not know what it meanes.

M. Sir, this it is, that two companions came to an Inne vpon the high way, and as there was nothing elſe to ſuppe withall, but one hen roaſted: one of them which was well hungry and a craftie fellow, ſaid to the other companion, in the meane while that I breake vp and order this hen, recount vnto me whereof your father died. The other began to be tender harted, and with teares related vnto him a long proceſſe of the ſickneſs of his father, & how he died, wherin he ſtood ſo long, that when he re-

V. Agua, no por vida de mi ánima, que tiene mas de la, que le echó el de lo alto.
M. Pues Dios no le vino a echár água, que ſin agua lo crió.
P. Bien, no eſtá v.m. en el quénto, el de lo alto es ſu maríido, que eſtá en lo alto de la caſa, y deſde allí, écha água en el vino, por una cebratána.
A. Con vos me entiérren Pedro que ſabéys de quenta.
M. Yo entendía que llamáva a Dios, el de lo alto.
A. En todas las coſas ay engáño.
P. Si no es en la ropa viéja.
V. Por ciérto que tienen razón, que eſtá ya el mundo muy perdído, por éſſo nos hémos recogído mi maríido y yo a éſta vénta, por acabár en buena vida.
M. Eſta llamáys buena vida huéſpeda?
P. Si Señór, que peor éra la de los de Sodóma y Gomórra.
V. No le paréçe a v. m. que es buena vida eſtár hechos hermitaños en eſte diſyerto, que mas hiziéron los padres de el yermo?

M. Let vs ſee the wine that is ſo good.
H. The wine is ſuch, that it is ſufficient to bring a man to heauen that ſhall vſe to drinke it.
P. What now Miſtreſſe, is it not enough to be a keeper of an Inne, except you be an heretike too?
H. That which I ſay is true, and I will proue it, that good wine carrieth men vp to heauen.
M. How ſo?
H. Good wine makes good blood, good blood doth engender good condition, good condition doth end in good workes, good workes carry men to heauen.
M. She hath proued her intent very ſufficiently.
A. But this cannot bee verified in this wine.
H. Why?
A. Becauſe this ſeemes rather vineger and water.
H. Water, by the life of my ſoule, it hath no more water in it, than he from aboue put in it.
M. God neuer came to put water into wine, but without water he created it.
P. Well, you vnderſtand not the matter a right. He from aboue is hir huſband, which is in the top of the houſe, and from thence puts water into the wine with a long tunnell.
A. I will dye and liue with thee Peter, for thou knoweſt faſhions.
M. I vnderſtood that ſhe had called God, him that was from aboue.
A. In euery thing there is deceit.
P. Except it be in an old garment.
H. Truly they haue reaſon, for the world is very bad, for this cauſe haue my husband and I withdrawen our ſelues into this Inne, to make an end in good life.
M. Call you this a good life Hoſteſſe?
P. Yea Sir, for that of Sodom and Gomorra was worſe.
H. Doe you not thinke that it is a good life to be made Hermits in this deſart, what did the Fathers in the Wilderneſſe more than this?

F. Dizes verdád, que ſi el ladrón anda con el hermitáño, o el ladrón ſerá hermitaño, o el hermitaño ladrón, peró tu nunca juegas?

F. Thou ſayeſt true, for if a theefe keepe companie with a hermit, either a theefe ſhall become a hermit, or a hermit a theefe, but doſt thou neuer play?

I. Yo no en mi vída.

I. I, neuer in my life.

F. Pues tente bien no cáygas, porque a fee que ſi cáes, que as de ſér como los borráchos que comiénçan tarde a ſer lo, que por eſquitárſe de lo que han dexádo de bevér, nunca ſálen de cueros.

F. Then hold faſt, fall not, for in faith if thou falleſt, thou art like to be as drunken men, which beginne at length ſo to be, which to quit themſelues of that they haue left to drinke, they neuer get out of drunkenneſſe.

I. Let vs leaue this now, and tell me how your maſter and you agree?

F. A mi muy bien, porque como es moço, galán, y enamorádo, ſon tres coſas que ſácan de harón al mas cuerdo, y ánſi todo ſe nos va en fieſtas, vna libréa oy, ótra mañána, ſiempre en ſaráos, múſicas, y dánças, ſiempre en combites, que mal año para Lançarote quando de Bretaña víno, ſi éra tan bien tratádo como noſotros.

F. I like very well of him, for he is young, gallant, and in loue, they are three things which buſie the wiſeſt man, & ſo we are altogither in feaſtings, one liuery to day, another to morrow, neuer without good cheere, muſicke, dances, and banquets, that the deuill take Lançarote when he came from Brittaine if he were ſo well entreated as we are.

I. Si perô a fée que créo, que tras buen bocádo, dais buen grito.

I. Yea, but in faith I beleeue that after a good morſell, you pay well for it.

F. Porque dízes éſſo?

F. Why ſaieſt thou ſo?

I. Porque me parece que ſi vueſtro ámo dánça de la manera, voſotros no avéys d'eſtár ociólos, ſino que avéys de çapatear, porque en caſa del múſico, todos los criádos ſon dançántes.

I. For I thinke, that if your maſter dance in ſuch ſort, you are not altogether idle, but that you foot it too, for in a muſitians houſe all the ſeruants are dancers.

F. Es verdád, que eſſo a coſadíllos nos trae de dia con recaudos, y de noche con róndas, peró con el buen peſébre, todo ſe paſſa y no como tu que eſtás ſerviéndo a vn pelón, que te deve matár de hambre.

F. It is true, that by reaſon of this loue ſmall occaſions driue vs in the day time with letters, and in the night we round the ſtreet, but with good fare we paſſe ouer all this, and not as thou doſt which ſerueſt a miſerable wretch, which killeth thee with hunger.

I. Æſope tels, that on a time two friends trauelled a foot together, and going by a wood, a Beare came out to them, the one laying hand on his ſword meant to defend himſelfe & his companion, whom he willed that he ſhould doe the like, that neither one of them nor the other might not miſcarrie : his companion which made more account of his owne ſafetie then his fellowes, was more bold vpon his feet then vpon his hands, and not reſpecting his fellow, betooke himſelfe to fly to a high tree which there he ſaw, and climed vp the ſame, where he was ſafe from the danger. His companion ſeeing that alone he could not defend himſelfe from the Beare, caſt himſelfe down on the ground, making ſhewes that he was dead, he held his breath and did not once blow while the beare came & ſmelt him round, his noſe and his mouth, and his eares, thinking he had been dead went his way without doing him any harme. Hee that was in the tree, ſeeing that the Beare was gone, came downe the tree, and asked his fellow what was that that the Beare had told him in his eare : The other anſwered, he told me that with ſuch bad companions as your ſelfe I neuer ſhould trauell againe.

F. Pues tu entiéndes las mejór?

I. Yo entiendo las como el las díxo.

F. Pues yo bien créo que entiéndo Romançe, y el en Romance hablá-va que no en algaravía.

I. Pues quieres vér como debáxo del ſayál ay al : y que aun que te habló en Eſpañol, es algaravía de allende para ti.

F. Yalo deſéo vér como es.

I. Pues lo priméro que díxo que el Turco ſe ha tornádo móro, es lo el de profeſſión y de ley, y ſuelo ſiempre : tódos ſíguen la ſeta de Mahóma. Que Venécia náda en água, es verdád que eſtá fundada en la már, que Ytália eſtá lléna de hómbres, tambien es verdád como Ynglatiérra lo eſtá, Tambien que en Fráncia, ay mas de cien mil hombres de guerra, quien no lo ſábe que quando el Rey quiera, podrá ſacár della mas de dozientos mil.

F. Todo éſſo bien lo entiendo yo, peró lo de más, como ſe puede entendér, que el conde de Flandes aya dormído con la Réyna deſpaña y no ſe anda el mundo en guerras.

I. Pues bobo no ſábes tu, que el conde de Flandes y el Rey Deſpaña es todo una própria perſona.

F. Iuro a tal, que tiene razón, que no avía yo caýdo en ello.

I. Pues lo demas que díze que el ſol es mayor que toda la tierra, es muy gran verdád, ſegun demonſtracióes Aſtrológicas, que yo con ſabér poco te las pudiéra dár a entendér, ſi uviéra lugár. Que la luna aparecerá cada noche de ſu manera, eſſo tu lo vées cada dia con ſus ereſciéntes y menguantes, nunca eſtá una noche, como eſtúvo otra : pues que arderán muchos móntes, tambien es verdád, que ay en el mundo muchos que thou wert ſo dull that thou vnderſtoodeſt not his prognoſtications and diuinings.

F. Doeſt thou then vnderſtand them better?

I. I vnderſtand them as he ſpake them.

F. But I beleeue well that I vnderſtand Spaniſh, and he ſpake in Spaniſh and not in the Moores tongue.

I. But wilt thou ſee, how vnder courſe attire is ſome wiſdome, and although he ſpake Spaniſh it is the Moores tongue to thee.

F. I deſire to ſee how it is.

I. The firſt then that hee ſaid, that the Turke is become a Moore or an Infidell, he is ſo by his profeſſion and law, and alwaies hath beene: all follow the ſect of Mahomet. That Venice doth ſwim in water, it is true, for it is built in the ſea : that Italy is full of men, alſo it is true as England is : alſo that in France are more than a hundred thouſand men of armes, who knowes it not, that when the King will, hee may draw out thereof more than two hundred thouſand.

F. All this I vnderſtand well, but the reſt how is it to be vnderſtood, that the Earle of Flanders hath lien with the Queene of Spaine, and the world not to be vp in armes.

I. Why foole doſt not know, that the Earle of Flanders and the King of Spaine is all one perſon.

F. I ſweare by ſuch a one, hee ſaith true, that I did not light vpon.

I. But the reſt, which he ſaith, that the ſun is bigger then the whole earth, is very true, according to aſtrologicall demonſtrations, which I in knowing but a little could eaſily make thee vnderſtand, if there were time and place, that the Moone will appeare as it was wont, that thou ſeeſt continually with hir waxing and waning, ſhe is neuer one night as ſhe was the other night: then that many mountaines ſhall burne, alſo it is true, for there be many in the world, as mount Ætna in Sicilie, which alwaies burnes, &c. that there ſhall bee a great ſlaughter of cattell who is ignorant thereof, for men are to kill them for to eat them.

F. Todo eſſo entiendo bien, peró aquello de aquéllos mónſtruos, que echarán llamas por la boca, y que hémos de comér lo que ellos vomitáren, no puédo y penſár que ſéa.

F. All this I vnderſtand well, but that of thoſe monſters, which ſhall caſt out flames out of their mouthes, and that we ſhall eat of that they ſhall vomit, I cannot thinke what it may be.

I. Eſſo es mas fácil que eſótro, porque aquellos mónſtruos, ſon los hórnos ado ſe cueze el pan, que échan llámas, y por la boca vomítan el pán que comémos.

I. This is more eaſie than the other, for thoſe monſters are ouens, where they bake bread which caſt out fire, and by the mouth of it, it vomiteth the bread which we eat.

F. Aora dígo que tiénes razón, y que yo eſtáva en bábia, y que puede vn nécio con vña necedád forjáda en ſu ymaginación dár en que entendér a cien ſábios.

F. Now I ſay you ſay true, and that I was in foolerie, and that a foole with his fooliſhneſſe framed in his owne imagination may giue to a hundred wiſe men matter to picke out.

I. Aſſi le a aconteció al poéta Oméro, que como con la vejéz eſtuvieſſe ciégo y ſe anduviéſſe paſſeando por la orilla de la már, y oyó hablár a ceirtos peſcádores, que en aquel punto ſe eſtávan eſpulgando, y come les preguntáſſe que péſca hazían, éllos entendiendo por los piójos, reſpondiéron, los que tenémos buſcámos, y los que no tenemos hallámos, pues como el buen Oméro no viéſſe lo que éllos hazían, y por eſta cauſa no entendiéſſe la Enígma, fue tanto lo que fatigó ſu ymaginación y entendimiénto, por entendér la y alcançár el ſecreto dello, que fue baſtante éſta peſadumbre a hazer le morír.

*I. So it hapned to the Poet Homer, that as he was with age blinde, and went walking by the ſea ſhoare, & heard certaine Fiſhermen talking, that at that time were a lowſing themſelues, and as he asked them, what fiſh they caught, they vnderſtanding that he had meant their lice, they anſwered, Thoſe that we * haue, we ſeeke for, and thoſe that we * haue not wee finde, but as the good Homer could not ſee what they did, and for this cauſe could not vnderſtand the riddle, it did ſo grieue his vnderſtanding to obtaine the ſecret of this matter, which was a ſuffiſient griefe to cauſe his death.*

F. El lo hízo no como ſábio, ſino como muy gran nécio, en martarſe por lo, que no podía alcançár.

F. He did that not as a wiſe man, but as a very great foole, in caſting away himſelfe for that he could not reach vnto.

I. Yo bien créo que no morirás tu deſſe acháque.

G. Háblan ynglés?

E. Vn poquíto, peró pues vos entendéis bien el Eſpañol, y yo tanbien no ympórta.

G. Huelgo me de yr, aunque no ſéa, mas de por aprendér algunas buenas fráſis Eſpañólas.

E. Eſſas ſé yo que las tiénen buenas, porque ſon de Tolédo donde es la príma de la lengua Eſpañóla.

A. Tratávamos de las ſalutaciónes, que ſe úſan en Ynglatérra, y de las que ſe úſan in Eſpáña.

G. Quales ſon mejóres?

A. Cierto en eſto, adonde quiera, ay abúſos, quando dize el Eſpañol Dios os guarde, en ora buéna eſtéys, Dios os de ſalúd, y el Yngles buénas tárdes y ótras ſemejantes yo apruévola por buena ſalutación.

G. Pues el mundo la repruéva, y tienen por tóſcos a los que la úſan.

A. Y aun por eſſo ſe díze, que anda el mundo a el rebéz, y no ay mejór ſeñál de que ello es buéno, de vér que el mundo lo repruéba.

G. De las demas ſalutaciónes que os paréce?

A. De las de mas digo, que quando el Yngles pregúnta a el ótro, como eſtáys, dize una gran neçedád, y quando el Eſpañól dize béſo os las manos, dize una gran mentíra.

G. Meneſtér es que déys razón, de vueſtra nueva opinión.

A. Aóra dezíme por vuéſtra vída, no os pareçe neçedad a el que vos veys bueno preguntár le como eſtá? G. Teneys

W. Speake they Engliſh?

G. A very little, but ſeeing you vnderſtand well the Spaniſh and I alſo, it makes no matter.

W. I am glad to goe, though it be but to learne ſome good Spaniſh phraſes.

G. Thoſe I know they haue and good ones, becauſe they are of Toledo where is the prime of the Spaniſh tongue.

W. They are peraduenture thoſe which goe there walking.

G. The very ſame, let vs goe meet them, God ſaue your Worſhips.

I. And welcome in Gods name.

G. Proceed in that conference which paſſed betwixt you.

*I. It ſeemes that you vnderſtood it, that you made anſwer to it without giuing * you the qu.*

A. We entreated of the ſalutations which are vſed in England, and of thoſe which are vſed in Spaine.

W. Which are better?

A. Truly in that matter, there are abuſes on both parts, when the Spaniard ſaith God keepe you, a good houre haue you, God giue you health: and the Engliſhman God den, or good euen, and the other like, I allow it for good ſalutation.

W. But generally it is diſallowed, and they hold them rude that vſe it.

A. And therefore it is ſaid, the world goes quite contrary, and there is no better ſigne that it is good, than to ſee it diſallowed in the world.

W. And of the other ſalutations, what thinke you?

A. Of the reſt I ſay, that when the Engliſhman *doth aske the other, how * he doth, he vtters his owne ſimplicitie, and when the* Spaniard ſaith, I kiſſe your hands, he telleth a great lye.

W. You muſt giue a reaſon of your new opinion.

A. Now tell me I pray you, doth it not ſeeme vnto you a ſimplicitie, to aske a man whom you ſee well, how he doth? G. Yes

G. Tenéys razón, peró podría tenér algun mal ſecréto que no ſe le eche de vér.

G. You ſay well, but he may haue ſome inward griefe, which appeareth not outwardly.

A. Eſtónçes que remedáis vos, con preguntár le como eſtá, No ſería mejór, rogár a Diós, que le de ſalúd, como haze el ótro?

A. Then what remedy doe you giue him in aſking him how he doth, were it not better to pray to God to ſend him health as the other doth?

G. Aóra dezíd lo de el Eſpañól.

W. Now tell that of the Spaniard.

A. El Eſpañól dígo, que dizé mas mentiras entre año en eſte cáſo, que reáles da por Dios, porque dezír a el que encuéntra, véſo las mános a v.m. ſi habla de preſénte, bien vémos, que miente, pues no ſe las béſa, ſi de futuro tanbien porque bien ſabémos, que quando el otro quiſiéſſe dar ſe las por muy amígo que fuéſſe no ſe las querría el veſár.

A. The Spaniard I ſay in this caſe telleth more lies within the yeare, then he gines ſixpences for Gods ſake, for to ſay to one that hee meeteth, I kiſſe the hands of your Worſhip, if hee ſpeake of the time preſent, we well ſee that he lieth, ſeeing he doth not kiſſe them: if of the time to come, in like manner; for we well know when the other would giue him his hands to kiſſe, if hee were neuer ſo great a friend, yet he would not kiſſe them.

G. Si peró paréçe que es vna manera de reconoſimiénto de ſuperioridád a el que díze.

W. Yea but it ſeemeth that it is a manner of acknowledging of ſuperiority to him, to whom it is ſpoken.

A. Aſsí es, peró éſſe reconoſimiénto no éſta mas que en la lengua por ✠ que el refran dize, manos béza hombre que querría vér cortádas.

A. So it is, but this acknowledging is no more, but in the tongue: for the Prouerbe ſaith, A man kiſſeth thoſe hands that he would ſee cut off.

D. Yo os diré lo que ſubcedió al propóſito, a vn cavalléro viéjo Eſpañól, con otro móço y fue, que como el moço por buena criánça, le díxo a el viéjo ſuplíco a v.m. me de las mános, que ſe las quiero beſár el viéjo confiádo en ſu-ançianía, las alargó para que ſe las beſaſſe, el otro ya arrepentído ſe las aſió con las ſuyas y con muy buen donáire le díxo ſenór yo y v. m. a otros dos.

I. I will tell you that which hapned fit for this matter, to an ancient Gentleman, a Spaniard, with another yong man; & it was, as the yong man for manners ſake ſaid to the old man, I entreat your Worſhip that you will giue me your hands, for I will kiſſe them; the old man preſuming vpon his yeares, put them out that he might kiſſe them: the other repenting, tooke him faſt by the hands with his owne hands, and with very good pleaſantneſſe, ſaid vnto him, Sir, I and your Worſhip againſt other two.

G. El moço andúvo diſcréto en hazér lo ansí, y el viéjo néçio, porque bien ſavémos, que palábras de buena criánça no oblígan.

W. The young man was wiſe in ſo doing, and the old man ſimple, for well we know that words of complement binde not.

D. Anſi es verdád, que eſſa çerimónia de beſár la mano, ſolo la deve el vaſállo a el Señór.

costumbre que con dezír, béso a v. m. las mános, paréçe que es dezír, reconósco a v. m. por mi Señór, y yo por vuestro vasállo.

E. Y que os paréçe de ésta costumbre, que tenémos en Ynglatérra de asír nos las manos vnos otros?

A. Dos manos asídas, siempre fue símbolo de amistád, peró dár los tirónes, que aquí se dán vno a ótro, tengo lo por poca gravedád, y no sé si diga por liviandád.

E. Antes paréçe que aquello es por mas confirmación de la amistád.

A. Esta cònfirmación ha de ser con óbras, y no con ademánes ni tirónes, quanto mas que deve avér muchos que con la máno asída y tirando, le deven de estár con el coraçón matando le.

G. Que dizís de la otra de besár los hombres a las mugéres publicaménte.

A. Esta costúmbre túvo su principio en Róma, en el tiempo que ella floreçia, aunque se ynventó a diferente propósito de el que aóra se úsa.

G. A que fin la ynbentáron?

A. Los Romanos aborecían tanto el víno en las mugéres, que tenián ley, en que condenáva a muérte ala que lo bevía, y porque no lo pudiessen hazer afcondidamente, tenian liçéncia sus parientes de besár la, para que por el olfáto conoçiessen, si lo avía bevído.

G. Si aóra se vbiessen de matár todas las que lo beven, yo veo que quedáramos sin mugéres.

E. No créo, que fuera muy gran pérdida, segun nos son causa de males.

G. Yo para mi tengo, que la mayor causa de la desoluçion en algunas mugeres de Ynglaterra es esta costumbre de besallos en publico, por que con ésto pierden la

G. And what is your opinion of this custome, which wee haue in England to shake hands one with another?

A. Two hands fastned together, alwaies hath beene a token of friendship, but to shake and plucke them, as here they doe one to another, I hold it for small grauitie, and I know not whether I may call it lightnes.

G. Rather it seemeth that it is for the greater confirmation of friendship.

A. This confirmation ought to bee with workes, and not with gestures, nor shaking of the hands, and so much the rather, because there are many which with hand in hand shake hands, and in heart would kill each other.

W. What say you of that custome of kissing betweene men and women, and that openly?

A. This custome first began in Rome, in the time it most flouriſhed, although it were inuented for a different purpose then it is now vsed.

W. For what purpose was it inuented?

A. The Romanes did so much deteſt wine in women, that they had a law, in which they did condemne to death that woman which did drinke wine, and because they might not drinke it without being knowne, their kinsfolkes had leaue to kisse the women, that they might know by their breath whether they had drunke wine or no.

W. If now they should kill all those women which drinke wine, I see we should be quite without women.

G. I beleeue that it were not any great losse, seeing they are cause of many euils vnto vs.

A. No, ſi no, per que ſómos tan trabieſſos, que no hémos meneſtér éſſe apetito, para hazér mil malos recaudos que ſería ſi tubieſſemos eſſe Ocaſión.

G. Yo créo, que antes cauſaría haſtío, y no andarían los hombres, tan golólos, por que vedamiento es cauſa del apetito.

A. No es fuego el de la concupiſçiéncia, que ſe ahóga, por echarle mucha materia, antes es como la ydropeſía, que mientras mas el enfermo béue mas ſed tiéne.

D. Eſpecialmente entre los Eſpañóles que por ſér de complexión coléricos, eſtá Venus en ſu punto.

G. Yo entiéndo éſſo al contrário, por que Venus conſiſte mas en vmedád que en calór, por lo qual entiendo que mas aptos ſon para ſemejante exercício los v'medos de complexión, que los coléricos que con de ſu naturaléza ſécos.

A. Si peró la humidád ſin calor, ſeriá como la tiérra ſin el ſol, que no es ſufiçiénte de míſma a produzír coſa algúna.

A. Before this cuſtome was brought into Rome, Titus Liuius telleth, that they baniſhed out of the Citie a Senator, a perſon of great account, onely becauſe he kiſſed his wife before one of his owne daughters.

W. They fell from one extremitie into another.

G. In Spaine doe not men vſe to kiſſe women?

I. Yes the husbands kiſſe their wiues, but as if it were behinde ſeuen walls, where the very light cannot ſee them.

W. It is becauſe the Spaniards are too iealous.

A. No not ſo, but becauſe we are ſo wanton, that we need nothing to helpe our appetite, to make a thouſand ill matches which would fall out if we ſhould haue this occaſion.

G. I doe rather beleeue, that it would cauſe ſatietie, and that men would not ſeeke it ſo greedily, becauſe forbidding is cauſe of deſire.

A. The fire of concupiſcence, is not ſuch as is extinguiſhed by caſting on much matter, but like the dropſie, that the more the ſicke perſon drinketh the more thirſt ſtill he hath.

I. Eſpecially among Spaniards, which are of a cholericke complexion, Venus is in her full force.

G. I take that quite contrarie, becauſe Venus conſiſteth more in moiſture than in heat, whereby it ſeemes to me that the moiſt of complexion are more apt to ſuch matters, than the cholericke which are by nature drie.

A. Yea but moiſture without heat, would be as the earth without the ſunne, which is not ſufficient of it ſelfe to bring forth any thing.

G. Pues yo para mi tengo, que en las tierras mas frías, eſtá mas reconçentrádo el calór naturál, y por éſſo con mayór apitúd, en los que biven en las tales regiónes.

W. But I for my part thinke, that in countries moſt cold, the naturall heat is more vnited in his center, and therefore is there greater deſire in thoſe that liue in thoſe countries.

A. No es eſſe calór reconçentrádo que eſtá en el coraçon el que es cauſa de eſte fuégo, ſino el que eſtá en la ſangre y partes exterióres.

A. It is not that heat, which is ſetled about the heart, which is the cauſe of this fire, but that which is in the blood and exteriour parts.

G. Si peró no me negaréis, que el calór de la ſangre no proçéde de el, de el hígado.

W. Yea but you will not denie, but that the heat of the blood doth proceed from the heat of the liuer.

A. Aſſi es verdád, peró no óbra éſte efécto en ſu orígen y fuente, ſi no quando ſe ha derramádo por las venas, y como la virtúd eſparzída, es mas fláca que quando eſtá vñida, ſi quando lo eſta es acometído el calór de ſu contrário el frío, y éſto confuérça y vehemência vénſe y resfría de ſuérte que no puede obrár ni hazér ſu efecto.

A. It is true, but it doth not worke this effect in the originall and fountaine, except when it hath ſpred it ſelfe by all the veines, and as the vertue diſperſed is more feeble then when it is vnited; ſo when it is ſo, the heat is ſet vpon by his contrary the cold, and this cold with force and vehemencie doth ouercome and coole in ſuch manner, that it cannot worke his effect.

D. Aſſi es, y la eſperiéncia de éſto ſe vée en los cabrónes, que es animál luxurioſiſſimo, y en llevándo le a tiérras frías, o no puede bivír, o pierde mucho de ſu poténcia.

I. So it is, and the experience of this is ſeene in great he-goats, which is a moſt luxurious beaſt, and in carrying him to cold countries, either he cannot liue, or he loſeth much of his naturall ſtrength.

G. Los Faunos o ſemicápras, que los antiguos llamávan médios diófes cuentan los autóres, y poetas, que éran en eſtrémo luxurióſos.

W. The Faunes or halfe goats which the ancient writers called halfe gods, authors and poets tell that they were wonderfully luxurious.

E. Es verdád, que úvo o ay táles hombres en en mundo llamados faunos?

G. Is it true, that there were and are ſuch men in the world called Faunes?

A. E. Hablava alguna coſa?

G. Spake he any thing?

A. Si que el ſancto le habló, y le preguntó quien éra y el en un lenguáje muy bárvaro, pero tal que el ſancto le púdo entendér, le reſpondió, que era vno de los avitadóres de aquél deſiérto, a quien la çiega gentilidád adoráva por dióſes, peró que éran criatúras mortáles, y dixo mas a el ſanto, que ſu grey y génte le enbiáva a el por embaxador a rogar le a el Sancto, que rógaſe por todos a el commun Dios de todas las gentes, que bien ſavían que avia baxádo de el çielo y hecho ſe hombre por redimír a los hombres, y con eſto ſe fue por aquel deſiérto, con tanta ligeréza que en muy breve eſpáçio, le perdió de viſta el ſancto.

A. Yea, for Saint Anthonie ſpake vnto him, and asked him who he was, and he in a language verie barbarous, yet notwithſtanding ſuch a language that the holy man could vnderſtand, he anſwered him, that he was one of the inhabitants of that deſart, whom the blinde Gentiles worſhipped for Gods, but that they were mortall creatures, and ſaid moreouer to the Saint, that his people & nation ſent him to him for an ambaſſador to entreat the holy mã, that he ſhould pray for all of them to the common God of all nations, for wel they knew, that he was come downe from heauen, and being made man to redeeme mankinde, and herewithall he went thorow the deſart with ſuch ſwiftneſſe, that in ſhort ſpace the holy man loſt the ſight of him.

D. Yo he leýdo tanbien, que a el emperadór Conſtantino magno, le traxéron de eſſos deſiértos, otro bíbo, y lo eſtúbo muchos dias, y deſpues de muérto ſaládo, le traxéron por muchas partes de el mundo, para que todos le biéſſen.

I. Alſo haue I read, that they brought to the Emperour Conſtantine the great, out of thoſe deſarts, another aliue, & there he was many daies, and afterward being dead and ſalted, they carried him thorow many parts of the world, that all men might ſee him.

G. Bolviéndo a nueſtra primera plática, que os pareçe de eſta ciudád de Londres?

W. Turning to our firſt ſpeech, what doe you thinke of the citie of London?

A. A mi me paréçe, en verano tienda, y en inviérno contienda.

A. It ſeemes to me in ſummer a ſhop, and in winter a contention.

G. Como ſe entiende éſſo?

W. How is this to be vnderſtood?

A. Digo que paréçe, en veráno tienda, por que en aquel tiempo, todos los Señóres cavalléros, y hidálgos, ſe ſalen fuera de ella, y ſe ván a ſus aldéas a paſſár el veráno, quedando en ella ſolos los oficiáles con ſus tiéndas abiértas.

A. I ſay it ſeemes in ſummer a ſhop, for that in that time, all the noble men, knights, and gentlemen, doe goe out of the citie, and they goe to countrey villages to paſſe ouer the ſummer, onely artificers remaining in it, with their ſhops open.

G. Que dezís de toda la tierra en generál?

W. What ſay you of the whole land in generall?

A. Que es fertiliſſima y abundante, de todas las coſas que ella produze, eſpeçíal de ganádos, déven de ſer los mas grueſſos y mejóres de el mundo.

A. That it is moſt fruitfull, and abounding of all things, which it doth bring forth, eſpecially flocks of ſheepe, which are the greateſt and beſt of the world.

G. Y tanbien de ſemíllas es muy fértil.

W. And alſo of ſeeds it is very fertile.

A. Anſi es verdád, peró como no puede avér coſa perfecta en eſte mundo, ya que en eſſo es abundante, le fáltan otras coſas neçeſſárias, a la vida vmána, que ella por la frialdád de ſu ſítio, no puede produzir, y anſi tiéne neçeçidád, de comunicatión con otros réinos.

A. It is very true, but as there cannot be any thing perfect in this world, ſo although in this it abounds, yet other neceſſarie things are wanting in it, which are required to humane life, which through the coldneſſe of the ſituation, it cannot bring forth, and ſo it hath need of commerce with other nations.

G. Que coſas ſon eſſas, que dezís que le fáltan, que yo créo que no ay coſa en el mundo, que en ella no ſe halle.

W. What things are thoſe which you ſay, that are wanting in it, for I beleeue that there is not any thing in the world that in it is not found.

A. Es áſſi verdád, peró es comunicádo de otros réynos, que bien véys vos, que en ella no ſe cría óro ni pláta, no ſe coje vino, ni azéite, açúcar, ſéda, eſpeçiería, ni frútas de las regaládas, como ſon çídras, limónes, límas, naránjas, granádas, alméndras, y otros mil géneros de ellas, muy neçeſſários para el regálo de las gentes, y como dígo de éſtas pocas coſas, pudiéra dezír de otras muchas que déxo.

A. It is true, but it is brought from other countries, for well you ſee that in it neither groweth gold nor ſiluer, nor wine, oyle, ſugar, ſilke, ſpice, nor fruits of the fineſt ſort, as are citrons, lymons, orenges, pomegranats, almonds, and a thouſand other kindes of them, very neceſſarie for the daintie feeding of men, and as I ſpake of theſe few things, I could ſay of many others which I leaue.

G. Si, peró tenémos otras, que sírven en lugár de eſſas cóſas, y anſi no las echámos menos, como çervéza por víno, mantéca por azéite, y otras ſemejántes.

W. Yea, but we haue others, which ſerue in ſtead of theſe things, and ſo we want them not, as beere for wine, butter for oyle, and others the like.

A. Con todo éſſo, ſería imposíble podér paſſár éſte réyno ſin comunicación con otro, lo que no tiene Eſpáña, que ſola entre todas las provínçias de el mundo, podría paſſár ſin comunicación con otra, por produzír, dentro de ſí todas any other countrey, bringing forth within it selfe all those necessarie things for mans life.

G. Pues, bien os podré yo dezír v'na cósa, que Espáña no produze.

W. But well may I tell you one thing which Spaine affords not.

A. Qual es?

A. What is it?

G. Especiería, que al fin lo tráeis de la yndia.

W. Spice, which you fetch from the Indies.

A. Tenéys razón, que élla sóla le fálta a Espáña, peró, como vos dixístes, tanbien se cría en élla, con que se podria suplír élla fálta.

A. You say true, for Spaine onely wants this, but as you haue said also, there growes in it that which may supply this want.

G. Que es?

W. What is it?

A. En lugár de pimiénta, se cría vna yérua que llamámos pimiénto, cuya simiénte es de tanta fuérça, y de el própio efécto que la pimiénta, que viene de yndias, en lugár de clávos, vsan múchos de los ajos, y si no fuésse por vn mal olorzíllo que tienen, son mas sabrósos que esótros, de açafrán gran cantidad se coje en Espáña, gengíbre de pocos dias aca, sea començádo a plantár en élla, y se da bien.

A. In stead of pepper there growes an herbe which we call pepper herbe, whose seed is of such strength, and of the very same effect the pepper is which comes from the Indies. In stead of cloues, many vse garlicke, and if it were not for a little smell which it hath, they are more sauourie then the other. Great quantitie of saffron is had in Spaine. Ginger not long since is begun to be planted therein, and it prospereth well.

G. A loménos no me negaréis, ser mas fértil tiérra en general Yngla-terra que Espáña.

W. At least you will not denie me, England generally to be a more fertile countrey then Spaine.

A. Digo que es verdád, y lo conçédo, peró tanbien os sé dezír, que de élla fertilidád, viene la floxedád en las cárnes, y mantenimiéntos de ella, que son de poco nutrimiénto y sustancia, y ésta es la cáusa, de que los Yngléses nos notáys a los Españoles por miserables en el comér, por que las carnes de Espáña, como de tierra mas estéril, son de tanto nutrimiénto que si comiésse de éllas vn hombre tanto como en Ynglaterra come, sin dúbda ninguna, reventaría.

A. I say it is true, and I doe grant it, but also I can tell you, that of this fertilitie proceeds the faintnesse of the flesh there, and the substance of it, which is of small nourishment and sustenance, and this is the cause why the English men doe marke the Spaniards for pinching in their diet, for that the flesh of Spaine, as of a countrey more barren, is of such nourishment, that if a man should eat of it so much as in England they eat, without doubt he should burst.

D. Por éllo, ay uno manéra de dezír, comun en Espáña, Tu padre ✻ çenó carnéro assádo, y acostó se, y murió se pues, no preguntes, de que murió.

I. For this cause, there is a common saying in Spaine, Thy father supped with mutton rosted, and went to bed and died, doe not now aske whereof he died.

A. En la própia Espáña tenémos la isperiéncia de ésto que la Andaluzía que es tiérra mas fértil que madura, the fleſh is not by odds of ſuch nouriſhment nor of ſo good taſte as that of Eſtremadura.

E. Tanbien ſe vée éſſo en los yngléſes, que van a Eſpáña, que dízen que no puéden comér tanta carne allá, como comían acá.

G. Alſo it may be ſeene in Engliſhmen which goe into Spaine, which ſay that they cannot eat ſo much fleſh there, as they did eat here.

G. Dezíme a óra, que os paréce, de el trato de nueſtra génte?

W. Tell me now, what you thinke of the Engliſh manner?

A. Generalménte hablándo, toda la gente yngléſa, es benína, y amoróſa, afáble, alégre, y amígos de regozíjos, y fieſtas, agénos de toda melancolía, como aquellos, en quien predomína el humór ſanguino, peró fuera de éſto, he notádo en todos en generál tan ynſatiáble avarícia, que deſdóra tódas ſus virtudes.

A. Speaking generally, all the Engliſh people are courteous and louing, affable, and merry, and louers of ſports and feaſts, free from all melancholie, as thoſe in whom doth predominate the ſanguine complexion: but beſides this I haue noted in generall, ſuch an inſatiable couetouſneſſe, as doth deface all their vertues.

G. Y de las mugéres que dezís?

W. And what ſay you of the women?

A. Las mugeres generalménte hablándo, piénſo que ſón las mas hermóſas de el mundo, por que tienen todas tres grácias particuláres, para ſer lo, que ſon en eſtrémo bláncas, coloradas, y rúbias, y la que con éſtas grácias que ſon generáles a todas, aciérta a tenér buenas faiciónes, es acabada en hermoſura: peró tanbien os dígo con la miſma generalidád, que tienen tres faltas.

A. The women generally, I thinke they are the moſt faire of the world, for they haue all the three ſpeciall graces which make them ſo, they are wonderfully white and red, and that with theſe graces which are generall to all, there hapneth for them to haue ſuch good fauour, whereby they are moſt beautifull: but alſo I tell you with the ſame generalitie, that they haue three faults.

G. Quales ſon por vida vueſtra?

W. I pray you what are they?

A. No las quiſiéra dezír, por no caér, en deſgrácia con éllas.

A. I would not willingly tell them, leſt I fall into diſgrace with them.

G. Yo ſalgo por fiadór que no cairéis.

W. I will be your ſuretie you ſhall not.

A ✠ Teneis razón, que quien nunca ſubió, no puede caer, peró las tres faltas ſon, pequeños ojos, grandes bócas, no buena tez en los roſtros, y de eſto es la cáuſa el áyre tan frío y ſutíl, que corre en eſtas partes, que ſe les cúrte y por eſto es buena la ynbinción la, de las mas carillas, aunque yo entiéndo que no deve de baſtár.

A. You ſay true, he that neuer gat vp, can neuer fall, but the three wants are little eies, great mouthes, and not very ſmooth skin in the face, and hereof the cauſe is, for that the aire is ſo cold and ſubtill in theſe parts, which doth tan them, and therefore maskes were wel inuented, although as I perceine they helpe not.

G. Vos lo avéys diſputádo muy bien, y yo os quédo muy aficionádo ſervidór, y aſſi os ſuplíco, que el tiempo que eſtubiéredes en eſta tiérra os ſirváis de mi.

W. You haue diſputed very well, and I remaine your affectionate ſeruant, and ſo I intreat you that the time you are in this countrey you ſo vſe me.
